CONGRESS.

Bill for the Better Security of Bank Reserves.

THE TARIFF AND TAX.

Civil Rights and Habeas Corpus.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1872.

SENATE.

POSTOFFICE IN PHILADELPHIA.

A bill was reported authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase a site in Philadelphia for a postoffice, the expense of both site and building not to exceed one million and a half dollars.

AERIAL TELEGRAPH.

Mr. SPENCER, from the Committee on Commerce, reported adversely on the House bill to incorporate the Loomis Aerial Telegraph Company.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

Mr. LOGAN, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported the House amendment to the bill authorizing certain appointments in the Quartermaster's Department, and recommended concurrence therein. He asked present consideration, but Mr. Nye objected and the bill went over.

SOUTHERN OUTRAGES.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on alleged outrages in the Southern States, reported a new bill composed of the exact phraseology of the bill extending the President's power to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and of the civil rights bill, both of which passed the Senate last week.

Mr. SCOTT, also from the same committee, reported without amendment Mr. Kellogg's bill providing for additional supervisors of elections under the enforcement act of February 28, 1871.

Mr. BAYARD objected to the second reading of these bills. The minority of the committee, he said, had no knowledge of the reference of these bills, and he questioned the right of the Senate to refer them to a committee organized for specific and entirely different duties.

The Vice President said that the Senate could, if it chose, refer to the committee matters outside of its specific duties.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION.

Mr. SUMNER offered a joint resolution amending the Constitution by providing for the election of President by a direct vote of the people, and abolishing the Vice Presidency.

A number of pension bills were reported and passed.

TARIFF AND TAX.

The tariff bill came up. The question was on adding the House bill appointing a Labor Commission. The salary of the Secretary of the Commission was made $2,500.

An amendment was adopted providing for the appointment of three commissioners, to hold office one year, to consider and examine various plans and methods of raising revenue, and report the best tax and tariff system they can devise, having regard to the interests of labor in its relations to capital and otherwise, and having regard also to the interests of commerce and of all classes of the American people.

Mr. CASSERLY offered an amendment providing that the committee should be selected from civil life, irrespective of partisan considerations, and that at least one of them should be identified with the labor interest, and should have personal experience and information on that subject. Agreed to.

The Labor Commission amendment, as amended, was then rejected—yeas 16, nays 36.

Mr. FENTON then offered an amendment to the tariff bill adding to the duty on salt, as fixed by the bill, 20 per cent. ad valorem, and advocated it.

Mr. CHANDLER said it should be 30 per cent. He noticed that the New England Senators were all in favor of a low duty on salt, about 12½ per cent., and he gave notice that if they reduced the duty on salt, he would try to have the duties on New England manufactures reduced to the same extent.

Mr. FENTON agreed with Mr. Chandler that 30 per cent. would be more just than 20.

The amendment was rejected—yeas 23, nays 34. Other amendments to increase the duty on salt were offered and rejected, leaving it as originally fixed by the House.

Mr. LEWIS offered an amendment providing that the President, instead of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall assign internal revenue supervisors to duty in any part of the United States.

Mr. HAMILTON, of Texas, offered an amendment providing for the discontinuance of any internal revenue district whenever the receipts fall below the expenses. Rejected.

The bill, having been considered in Committee of the Whole, was reported to the Senate, when all amendments not reserved were concurred in.

The provision applying the ten per cent. reduction of existing duties to paper was concurred in, as first reported from the Finance Committee, as follows: "On all paper and manufactures of paper, including books and other printed matter not herein specifically provided for."

Mr. SHERMAN moved the following amendment, which was agreed to: "On all sized and glued paper, suitable for printing paper, 25 per cent. ad valorem."

The amendment providing for an additional duty of ten per cent. ad valorem on goods the product of a country east of the Cape of Good Hope, except raw cotton and raw silk when imported from places west of the Cape, was amended so as to take effect on the first of October, and concurred in.

On motion of Mr. SHERMAN, the paragraph imposing a duty of ¾ of a cent per pound on fine flax, dressed, and valued at 25 cents per pound, was struck out.

Upon concurring in the amendment adopted in Committtee of the Whole making the duty on saltpetre, crude, one cent per pound, partially refined one cent and a half, and refined two cents per pound, there was some discussion, in the course of which Mr. BAYARD said there was something in the air just now which made it desirable to provide for a good supply of gunpowder.

The amendment was concurred in.

Mr. CHANDLER moved to amend the section allowing drawback on imported materials used in the construction and equipment of vessels built in the United States for the purpose of being employed in the foreign trade, so as to prohibit from engaging at all in the coastwise trade. Lost.

Mr. SPRAGUE offered an amendment giving the benefit of the section to vessels engaged in the coastwise trade. Lost.

Mr. SCOTT offered an amendment providing that where American materials are used in the construction of such vessels, there shall be allowed and paid an amount equivalent to the duties imposed on similar foreign materials or articles when imported. Lost.

Mr. VICKERS, on behalf of the Committee on Commerce, offered an amendment providing that American vessels which have been registered abroad since July 1st, 1861, may within two years be registered as American vessels, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Agreed to.

The amendment fixing the tax on tobacco at 21 cents per pound was concurred in.

An amendment reported from the Committee on Finance, abolishing moieties to informers, and appropriating $100,000 to pay for detecting and bringing to punishment violators of the internal revenue laws, was concurred in—yeas 38, nays 14.

HOUSE.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. VAN TRUMP, in a personal explanation, declared the statement untrue that he had declined examining, while in the sub-Ku-Klux Committee, a prominent Democratic lawyer who could make Ku-Klux disclosures.

Mr. STEVENSON testified to Mr. Van Trump's good conduct in that whole matter.

ADJUSTMENT OF PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS.

The Senate bill extending for three years the act of June 22, 1868, for the final adjustment of private land claims in Florida, Louisiana and Mossouri, was passed.

AFFAIRS IN LOUISIANA.

Mr. SCOFIELD, from the Select Committee on Affairs in Louisiana presented a report of himself and Mr. McCreary, and Mr. SPEER, of Pennsylvania, presented a report of himself and Mr. Archer. Mr. Smith of New York, is to present his own views. There was no regular committee report. The documents were all ordered printed.

SENECA SAND STONE.

The report of the Public Building Committee on the Seneca sand stone investigation was made and ordered printed.

BANKING.

The House refused to suspend the rules to pass the bill prohibiting the issue of bank notes except by the United States or State banks.

A bill for the better security of bank reserves was passed under a suspension of the rules. It provides that the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to receive United States notes on deposit without interest from National banks of not less than ten thousand dollars, and issue certificates therefor of not less than five thousand dollars, said certificates being payable on demand in United States notes where deposits are made; notes thus deposited not to be counted as part of the legal treasury reserve; but certificates may be counted by National banks as part of their legal reserve, and be accepted in clearing house balances where deposits were made. The deposits shall be held as a special fund in the treasury, to be used only in the redemption of said certificates. Nothing in this act is to be construed as authorizing any expansion or contraction of the currency.

Mr. BUTLER, being informed by the Speaker that there was no possibility of compelling a vote on the enforcement act, moved to adjourn, but at the suggestion of Mr. DAWES, a recess was taken till evening, when general debate only will take place.

WILMINGTON.

Railway Disaster.

WILMINGTON, N. C., May 30.—An accommodation train on the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta railroad ran off the track near Grist's station to-day, and three cars were wrecked. C. H. Rickstraw, of Cheraw, S. C., and Morris Bishoff, of Terre Haute, Ind., were seriously, and five others slightly, injured. All the wounded were brought to this city and placed in the hospital. It is supposed that none of the injuries are fatal. The accident was not caused by negligence or carelessness.

—On Thursday, in Hopkins county, Ky., a negro deperado, drunk at a circus, attacked Dr. Mann Winsted, a policeman, with a piece of scantling. Winsted shot him in the neck with a revolver, killing him instantly.

THE CAPITAL.

The Louisiana Troubles.

HOW THEY ORIGINATED.

The Treaty in Peril.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1872.

THE LOUISIANA TROUBLES.

Reports were to-day made in the House of Representatives by members of the committee appointed to inquire into the origin and character of the difficulties in Louisiana. Mr. Scofield, chairman, and Mr. McCrary gave a circumstantial account of the trouble, but did not recommend action on the part of Congress. They say the trouble was not between the Government and officers of Louisiana on the one side and the officers of the United States on the other, but between the friends and opponents of the administration of Governor Warmoth. It was merely a division or quarrel among the leaders of the Republican party, in which many of the federal officials were prominent actors, some on one side and some on the other. The leaders of the Democratic party also participated in it, sometimes in alliance with one faction and sometimes with the other, as interest or consideration of duty seemed to require. The part taken by federal officials in the quarrel, whether wise or unwise, seems to have originated entirely with themselves. There was no trace of interference by the administration at Washington. This was attested by declarations of the officers themselves, as well as by the fact that they were very much divided in their affiliations.

Mr. Smith, of New York, concurs in the above, with additions and qualifications, and says it is not to be denied that in view of the disturbed condition of things, some unscrupulous men have got into office in Louisiana. The men who go South to hold office and return when they lose office are not confined to any political party. The trouble in that State are similar in kind to, although perhaps greater in degree than, such as generally follows civil wars. The reconstruction of Louisiana was of necessity an upheaval of the very foundations of society. The State has suffered solely in the pangs of transformation; but the situation is now being accepted, and confidence between the races restored. If this confidence be not disturbed, there is no reason to doubt that the State will enter on a new career of prospects and peace.

Mr. Spicer, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Archer, say the political rascals and adventurers in Louisiana have quarreled among themselves, and honest people may now get justice. That they may get it speedily is the prayer of every man who has felt or witnessed their sufferings and wrongs. The committee have no power to relieve the people of Louisiana. Under a fair and honest election they will relieve themselves, and if the Federal administration will entrust the business and interests of the Government in Louisiana to honest men, who care more to perform their official duties and thus save the country, than to enlarge political parties and control State legislatures, United States troops will not be needed in New Orleans. With the interests of Louisiana directed by intelligence and guarded by the love of her own people, and with the interests of the National Government there in proper hands, no Congressional recommendations will be needed to restore to her unnumbered blessings of peace and a speedy return of her long exiled prosperity.

THE TREATY IN PERIL.

It is known from an official source that the treaty of Washington is in peril, the United States having placed on Great Britain the responsibility of its failure, the President and Senate being determined to make no further concession. Telegrams last received do not give any hope of an early adjustment, as it is said Great Britain refuses an unequivocal withdrawal of our claims for indirect damages.

Maxwell Woodhull, Assistant Secretary of Legation at London, arrived here to-day with despatches from Gen. Schenck.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

A rising barometer, northerly to westerly winds, and clear and clearing weather will prevail on Friday from the lower lakes to Florida, and eastward to the Atlantic; clear and pleasant weather for the Gulf States; falling barometer, easterly to southerly winds and increasing cloudiness will prevail north-west of the Ohio valley, with possibly threatening weather from the lower Missouri valley to Lake Superior; dangerous winds not anticipated.

THE OUTRAGES ON JEWS IN ROUMANIA.

LONDON, May 30.—An influential meeting was held at the Mansion House last night, at which speeches were made giving expression to warm sympathy for the suffering Isrealites in Roumania. Resolutions were adopted invoking Her Majesty's Government to interpose for the protection of the persecuted race in that country against the outrages of the populace.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Commander Charles Brand, a retired officer of the Royal Navy, died yesterday. The deceased was present at the capture of Washington by the British in 1814.

THE TREATY NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, May 30.—The British Government considers that the negotiations with the American Government with regard to the treaty of Washington have failed. The Government will inform Parliament that it will withdraw from the arbitration at Geneva.

SPAIN.

UNPOPULARITY OF MARSHAL SERRANO.

MADRID, May 30.—The excitement over Serrano's generous treatment of insurgents is very great, and stormy scenes in the Cortes have served to intensify it. It is probable that the Marshal, with other Ministers who have accepted positions in the new cabinet, will resign. Should the King insist on making Serrano Premier, as it is rumored he is disposed to do, in reward for his distinguished services in quelling the Carlist insurrection, grave consequences are feared.

FRANCE.

INCENDIARY SENTENCED.

PARIS, May 30.—The trial of Chateau for setting fire to the Tuileries terminated yesterday, with a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to be shot.

POLITICAL.

Pendleton on Greeley's Chances for the Presidency.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—A special to the Age, from Reading, says Pendleton, in a confidential letter to Barr, states that while doing justice to the personal integrity of Horace Greeley, and approving the Cincinnati platform and the letter of acceptance of Greeley, he recognized fully the difficulty of securing to such a life-long antagonist of democracy the support of a majority of its voters in the North, and views with apprehension, if a Democrat of undoubted strength is not nominated at Baltimore, the possibility of the election of the President being left to the House of Representatives.

Not for Greeley.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., May 30.—The State Journal to-day denies the truth of the dispatches recently telegraphed from here, representing that nearly all the Democratic papers in Illinois are unconditionally for Greeley. It says they are for Greeley only on condition that he is nominated by the National Democratic Convention, and that there are not a dozen papers in the State that have yet hoisted a Greeley ticket.

—In the Circuit Court of Morgan county, Illinois, at Jacksonville, on Wednesday, the testimony in the case of Henry Henslee, on trial for the murder of his wife at Minier, Tazewell county, last November, was closed, the last witnesses for the prosecution being Charles, aged seventeen years, and Mary, aged fifteen years, children of the defendant and his alleged victim. They testified to having witnessed continued quarrels between their father and mother, and that the former had several times threatened to put his wife out of the way, and also that he had often beaten and maltreated her. Both children were away from home the day the murder was committed, but their straightforward testimony as to the circumstances before and after the death of their mother tends strongly to confirm the general belief in the father's guilt, and will probably result in his conviction.

—A Sparta (Ky.) special dispatch says: The man John Branham, who murdered his wife on Wednesday by splitting her head open with an ax, was hung the same night by a party of about one hundred men, who collected in front of the Owenton jail about one o'clock and demanded the prisoner, John Branham. They took him from the jail, carried him about half a mile from the town and hung him to a tree. None of the town authorities were aware of the demonstration. No cause is known for his killing his wife.

—The last week of the Nashville Industrial Exposition is drawing to a close. No diminution of interest is manifested. On the contrary, the number of visitors increases daily. Extra trains provided by the railroads bring and take away every day large crowds from Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia. Visitors have been in attendance from every State in the Union. The Exposition is a success in every respect.

INDIANAPOLIS.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Decoration day was generally observed here. Most of the business houses were closed during the afternoon. The ceremonies at Crown Hill Cemetery of decorating the graves were impressive, and were participated in by a large number of people. Mayor McCauley delivered an address.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the following resolution was adopted and a committee of sixty appointed to further the object contemplated:

Resolved, By this vast concourse of citizens assembled to decorate the graves of Union soldiers at the State Capital, that we feel that the great, prosperous State of Indiana owes to the memory of her sons, who perilled their lives in the service of their country, to erect State monument that shall stand as a memorial to their patriotic dead. To that end we respectfully ask the Governor to recommend to the Legislature to provide for the erection at the Capital of the State, in the park known as "Government Circle," a grand monument to the memory of Indiana soldiers who periled their lives in the service of their country.

MILWAUKEE.

MILWAUKEE, May 30.—Decoration Day was appropriately observed here and throughout the North-west. About 300 graves in the cemeteries of Milwaukee were strewn with flowers at an early hour this morning by members of the Grand Army of the Republic. The day opened cloudy, but cleared off bright and sunny.

TERRE HAUTE.

TERRE HAUTE, IND. May 20.—The decoration exercises in this city to-day were the most imposing demonstration ever known in this part of the country. The procession was immense, and more than 5,000 people were at the cemetery. An address was delivered by Mayor O. J. Smith, A. A. White, and D. S. Terrant.

TOLEDO.

TOLEDO, May 30.—Forsythe Post No 15, G. A. R., assisted by various civil societies and a large concourse of citizens, performed the ceremony of decorating the soldiers' graves at Forest and other cemeteries this afternoon. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Maj. J. R. Sungart, J. F. Lockwood, and Gen. J. C. Lee. Business was generally suspended during the afternoon.

CLEVELAND.

CLEVELAND, May 30.—Decoration Day in this city was more generally observed than upon any other previous occasion of the kind, business being generally suspended and the population regarding it as a holiday. The ceremonies at the several cemeteries was quite impressive and beautiful, and the floral offerings very profuse. At Woodland cemetery a beautiful granite monument to the Seventh Ohio Infantry was decorated. The dedicatory address and history of the regiment was delivered by Governor Geary, of Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the Grand Army of the Republic executed their design of decorating the graves of their fallen comrades. The procession was divided into four divisions, and was headed by a police escort of eighteen men. General Joseph C. Pinckney acted as Grand Marshal. The procession started near the statue of Lincoln, passed around the square in order to encircle the statue of Washington, and then moved down Broadway. In passing the monument the flags were dipped, and all in the procession uncovered. Flags were displayed at half mast on many buildings, and gifts of flowers were received at various points. On reaching Trinity church, past Phil. Kearney left the line and decorated the grave of the gallant soldier for whom the Past is named, afterwards rejoining the column.

At South Ferry a part of the procession was dismissed, while others crossed to Brooklyn and joined the division there, proceeding thence to East New York and Cypress Hills cemeteries. The graves of all soldiers in the different cemeteries were strewn with flowers. In Brooklyn the earliest services were those conducted in Woodlawn cemetery, Farragut's resting place. Boats carrying marines, naval officers and different Posts of the Grand Army left the navy yard at 2 A. M. The services were begun at sunrise. Vermont's band performed a dirge. The chaplain offered a prayer, and Comrade Louis Frost delivered an address. Flowers were strewn over the graves.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—In compliance with executive orders issued by President Grant and Gov. Cooke, all the departments of the Government and District offices were closed during to-day, to enable the employes to participate with the Grand Army of the Republic in the ceremonies connected with the decoration of soldiers' graves. The House of Representatives took a recess from half-past twelve till evening, in order that the members might enjoy the same privilege. Thousands of persons were on the Arlington Grounds, which were tastefully and profusely decorated. The main stand accommodated two hundred persons. It was beautified and draped with American flags, over which were suspended evergreen festoons, shields, arches and other appropriate emblems. The stage for the oration was ornamented with banners, evergreen crosses and bouquets. At one o'clock President Grant arrived, and seated with him on the stand were the Secretary of War, the Postmaster General, Secretary Robeson, Mr. Mori, the Japanese Minister, with Iwakura and others of the embassy, Gens. Banks, Meigs, Porter and Babcock, Consul Perry, the soldiers' and sailors' orphans, a large number of ladies, and leading members of the Grand Army of the Republic. A national salute having been fired, the Marine Band played several pieces of music, and Comrade Duncan recited an original poem. Gen. N. P. Banks then delivered an oration, at the conclusion of which the large assemblage moved to the tomb of the unknown dead, which encloses the remains of 2,111 soldiers gathered from the field of Bull Run, and on the route to the Rappahannock. The tomb was heavily canopied with American flags, around the lower circumference of which were placed, at frequent intervals, evergreen crosses and shields, on which were inscribed the names of Generals Baker, Wadsworth, Richardson, Lynn, McPherson and Kearney. Underneath the canopy and around the granite mausoleum evergreens and wreaths and garlands, decorated with roses, were gracefully festooned.

Prayer having been offered by the Chaplain of the House of Representatives, a chorus by the orphans of the National Soldiers, and Sailors, Orphan's Home was sung, after which Hon. Jesse Moore, of Illinois, delivered an address in which he said, "A country so saved should live forever. A Union cemented by blood so sacred and so profusely poured out should never be sundered. Let liberty and equal rights be loved and cherished here until every nation under heaven shall become as free and prosperous as our own."

In conclusion, he advised all to emulate the noble deeds and characters of those whom they had assembled to honor to-day, so that our glorious country should never call in vain in a time of trying necessity for the exhibition of that noble and self sacrificing patriotism for which these illustrious deeds were so eminently distinguished.

The band then played the American hymn, after which the procession was formed, headed by the orphan children and the committee on decorations for the decoration of graves. While the ceremony of decorating the graves was going on, the Marine Band, stationed near the main avenue, executed appropriate musical selections.

The graves of four other cemeteries in the vicinity of Washington were decorated during the day.

ST. LOUIS.

NEW YORK, May 30, 1872.

MEETING OF FREE TRADERS.

A meeting of free traders was held at Steinway Hall to-night to take counsel in reference to the Cincinnati Convention. William Cullen Bryant presided. Chas. H. Marshall, Secretary, read a list of eighty-five Vice Presidents, among whom were Stewart Brown, Oswold Ottindorfer, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles O'Connor, Hon. John A. Dix, S. D. Babcock, Mahlon Sands, P. Lorillard, W. W. Sherman, of Sherman, Duncan & Co., Samuel McLean, of Brooklyn, &c.

The Chairman, in a brief opening address, said "Our of revenue laws have grown into a system of gross abuses. Four out of every five wise men would pronounce them oppressive and a burden on the community. The people are now determined, and it would be dangerous for any political party to disregard the demand to put aside indirect taxes, which are so burdensome."

The Secretary, C. H. Marshall, read a letter to Mr. Bryant, signed by J. D. Cox, George Hoadley, and numerous others in Cincinnati, asking either that the meeting to-night nominate candidates for President and Vice President, or that a meeting of representative men be called, not later than the 27th of June.

Mr. Sands then read a series of resolutions, as follows:

Resolved, That with the disappearance of political issues arising out of the institution of slavery and resulting from the war which slavery entailed, the need has made itself felt among thoughtful men of both parties for a Governmental policy based on the material interests of the country, and contemplating broad, practical reform in the collection of the revenue, the reorganization of the civil service, and in all branches of the Government administration.

Resolved, That with a general relaxation of old party ties, and with a growing distrust felt toward professional political leaders, the country turns for counsel to independent thinkers in the ranks of either party, and therefore the late Convention at Cincinnati was regarded hopefully, in the trust that it would lay down a sound and adequate platform of principles, and would likewise nominate a candidate whose freedom from all associations with odious political rings and whose whole record on questions of the present and future should give assurance that his election would bring with it radical changes for the better.

Resolved, That both the platform and candidate of the Cincinnati Convention have caused a deep disappointment in the mind of the community, and have rendered impossible that co-operation of all reforming influences, without the union of which success is impossible.

Resolved, That the late convention at Cincinnati, having been held under a call which specified free trade as one of its leading principles, and that issue having been ignored in its platform, while the most prominent protectionist in the country was named as its candidate, no obligation to support him rests on those free traders who participated in the convention and under whose auspices the convention was convoked.

Resolved, That those who have labored in the past to redress wrongs and to abolish the abuses in our tariff system should not permit their exertions to be diminished by the rebuff which they have received at Cincinnati. On the contrary, the present dissolution of former party ties offers an opportunity for efforts in many districts in which it has heretofore been hopeless to attempt to break all party lines on the question of tariff reform.

Resolved, That while thus preparing for an active contest in individual Congressional districts, we cannot forget that in a Presidential campaign the leading motive which guides the course of many voters must be found in the public character and record of the candidates for the Presidency; we therefore call on all friends of free trade and kindred reforms to unite with us in efforts to secure the nomination of a candidate who shall adequately present our principles; and further,

Resolved, That for this purpose the present meeting be empowered to appoint a committee of ten, which shall have power to add to its number, and whose duty it shall be to put themselves in communication and to concert an effective co-operation with all associations and individuals having like objects in view.

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE.

Rev. Dr. Dillon was elected editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, and Dr. Hunter of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, by a vote of 213 out of 363.

Dr. Bonner presented a report of the special Committee on Book Concern Affairs, which was read by Judge Cooley.

In this report the committee also state that they made as thorough an examination into the affairs of the Concern as the time allowed. The questions considered by the committee were as follows: 1st—Have there been any frauds in the management of the Book Concern? 2nd—Have the frauds been of such a nature as to materially impair the financial strength of the Concern? 3d—Could they have been prevented? 4th—Was any agent or assistant implicated in the frauds? 5th—Was the method of conducting the business such as to offer a reasonable safeguard against fraud? 6th—Is the report of the agent a fair exhibit of the liabilities and assets of the Concern.

The committee arrived at the conclusion that there has been a series of frauds carried on in the manufacturing and bindery department by which heavy but indefinite losses were sustained, which, however, were not of sufficient magnitude to endanger the financial strength of the Concern. The agent or assistant agent was discovered to have been implicated in the frauds. Hartman, the Superintendent of the manfacturing department, must bear the responsibility. The purchase of paper through Porter is declared a decided impropriety, which cannot be sanctioned, and the committee believe that if proper precaution had been used, the frauds could have been prevented.

The committee consider that the present methods of conducting the business of the Concern ensure reasonable protection against frauds, but are by no means perfect. The committee had no evidence. The statement just made of the condition of the Concern was not as it should be. The report seemed to give general satisfaction.

The Standing Committee on the Book Concern presented a voluminous report of the publishing interests, which was adopted section by section. The committee recommend that the two principal publishing houses be in New York and Cincinnati.

Dr. N. E. Cobleigh was declared elected editor of the Atlanta Methodist Advocate.

The Conference took a recess.

Afternoon Session.—D. J. M. Reid offered as an amendment to the report of the Book Committee the following:

Resolved, That real estate should be entered on the exhibit at cost, agents giving in a foot bill its true value.

Dr. Nelson offered the following as a substitute, which was adopted:

Resolved, That in an inventory, the real estate shall have its value fixed by the Book Committee at each quadrennial meeting, which shall not be changed during the quadrennial except by necessary changes caused by the purchase or sale, improvement or destruction of real estate.

Dr. Nelson offered a resolution defining the powers of the Book Committee, providing that they shall have power to suspend an agent or editor, by a majority vote, on charges of malfeasance in office; also, giving power to the committee on a two-thirds vote, to remove an editor or agent in the interval between the meetings of the General Conference; also, that due notice shall be given to bishops when trials are to be held, and the bishops shall select one of their number to preside.

Dr. Freel offered as an amendment that the majority have power to suspend or remove.

On motion, the whole subject was referred to a special committee of five.

The passage relating to the election of editors was amended so as to read that "all these officers shall be members or ministers of the M. E. Church."

Bishop Andrews offered the report of the committee appointed to re-arrange certain boundaries. The committee was organized under the Chairmanship of Bishop Andrews, and rearranged the boundaries of five Conferences, so as to make of them four Conferences. The new Conferences are named respectively Ontario, Central New York, Pennsylvania, and East Genessee. The delegates from East Genessee objected to the boundaries of their Conference being changed, and a long debate followed a motion to adopt the new boundaries finally prevailing. The old Conferences were known as Genessee, East Genessee, Central New York, and Black River. The two latter have been changed into the Ontario Conference.

THE LABOR STRIKES.

The strikes continue, and the prospect of a speedy settlement of the trouble does not appear so cheering. The workmen of Steinway & Sons are co-operating with other piano forte makers, and success is promised. No additional shops are reported to-day as conceding to the terms proposed by the workmen. It was said, however, that the employers will hold a meeting to-day or to-morrow, and arrange for a general acceptance of the men's demands.

The piano forte makers, together with the cabinet makers, have appointed a joint committee to wait on the Governor and ask him to restrain the police from excessive interference with the committees in their visits to workshops. It was announced in the Germania Assembly rooms that the piano and cabinet makers of Pittsburgh are on a strike, and that the Boston piano forte and cabinet makers will strike on June 1st if their employers do not concede eight hours to form a day's work.

The desk makers are co-operating with the cabinet makers, and propose that when they recommence work they will contribute fifty cents a week each toward a general fund to support the men in case of adverse action in the future by the employers.

The horse shoers will enter on a general movement on Monday. A strike will be arranged this evening in case of non-compliance of the bosses in shorter hours of labor.

THE SUPPLEMENTAL ARTICLE.

A Washington dispatch says that the President, when at the Senate yesterday, showed to a leading Senator the dispatches received from Minister Schenck on the supplemental article. The first of these dispatches represented that the British Government was dissatisfied, and cannot accept the Senate's substitute unless there is another supplement adopted, making the explanation clearer. To this Secretary Fish replied that no further changes could be conceded. Another subsequent dispatch reiterated that the changes in the article adopted by the Senate were not clear to the English Government. Yesterday Mr. Fish assured Minister Thornton that the Senate resolution was the ultimatum of the United States, and that further obstinacy of the British Government could only be regarded by our Government as a desireto see the treaty fail altogether. A dispatch was sent to Schenck yesterday that the British Government must accept the Senate proposition or none at all, or the responsibility of the treaty rests on England. The President does not think that there will be any exigency for an extra session of the Senate, but if further treaty negotiations ensue, that event will become necessary.

THE STATE.

BERKS.—Dr. Samuel C. Ermentrout, of Reading, who was a surgeon in the Prussian army during the late Franco-Prussian war, has just been forwarded the Crown Order, with the Remembrance Band of the late war, with the official documents direct from the Military Inspector at Berlin, by order of the Emperor William. These are sent to the doctor on account of his services in the late struggle, which resulted in the unity of the German Empire. The badge is of gold, and consists of a Maltese cross, with a crown in the centre, surrounded by an enamel with the inscription, "God with us." Above is the red cross in a white field, the distinctive badge of surgeons. On the reverse side is the monogram of the Emperor, with the date of the institution of the Order, October 18, 1861. The Remembrance Band, to which the badge is attached, consists of a red, white and black silk ribbon, denoting the German colors.

BUCKS.—James M. Sellers and Company have the contract for the Philadelphia and Newtown Raiload; and the cost of construction will be about $28,000 per mile.——The tax payers of Lower Makefield in general convention met, have decided to establish a graded school in that township.——William Lovett, who runs the fishery near Tullytown, has had one haul of shad, which counted two hundred and ninety-three. The largest taken there for twenty years.——On the afternoon of last Tuesday, at his residence in Solebury township, near New Hope, died from general debility, John Kitchin, a soldier in the war of 1812—aged 84 years.——The Doylestown Democrat says: Here at home, right out from the bowels of our sacred soil, has been thrown to the surface, a specimen of solid, sparkling, iron ore, which even now glistens on the local table. It was taken from the sand quarry of our courteous Court Crier, Thomas Hays, located on Clinton street, immediately north of Ashland—and was brought in and handed over to us by our townsman, Dr. G. T. Harvey, who keeps an attentive eye upon the development of our resources. The strata in which it was found, is, say from four to six inches thick—not enough to fix up furnaces for, but big enough to blow upon. It is said to equal the ore down at Sandy Ridge; and we intend to have it smelted to ascertain its value.

CLEARFIELD.—The Raftsman's Journal says: We had several fine showers of rain last week, and another on Monday of this week, in this region, which greatly refreshed vegetation of all kinds, but had very little effect upon the waters in the streams. A good rise in our river and creeks is the great desideratum with our people, so as to enable them to get their lumber and logs into market—otherwise a stringency in money matters will greatly embarrass and retard business of every character.——We would be very much gratified, says the Journal, if that "fifteen year old boy, measuring six feet two," and who, many of our exchanges say, lives in Clearfield, would shuffle himself around to our sanctum, that we might vouch for the truth of the assertion.——There will be a meeting of the Ruling Elders of the Presbyterian Church, in Clearfield county, in the Lecture room of the congregation, on Monday evening, June 3rd. Matters of interest to the Church are to be transacted.——On Monday last, a "right smart" little hail storm visited Bloom township.——The Journal in noting the advantages of Clearfield, says: We have all the elements to make this a great center of trade—water power, lumber, coal, iron ore, glass sand and fire clay, are all accessible and abundant. A better locality for all kinds of manufactories scarcely exists in the State; and any enterprise started here, can hardly fail of success, or of affording a competent remuneration for the investments made. Then, let capital concentrate here, and ere many years Clearfield will be one of the most prominent and flourishing business marts in Central Pennsylvania. The easily accessible raw material warrants us in making this assertion."

ERIE.—The examination of the graduating class at the Normal School, Edinboro, will be held on the 10th and 11th of June. The examiners, besides the faculty, are the State Superintendent, J. P. Wickensham; Prof. C. H. Varill, of Mansfield, Pa.; Prof. H. S. Jones, City Superintendent; and Prof. W. N. Aiken, the County Superintendent of Lawrence county.——The plans for the changing of Farrar Hall, Erie, into a grand opera house are all prepared. It is expected to comfortably seat between eleven hundred and twelve hundred people. The auditorium will have parquette, dress circle, family circle and upper gallery.

FOREST.—The Catholic Church society about Tylersburg are erecting a church, of brick, fifty by eighty feet, which is under roof, the floor and gallery in. The tower is to be ninety feet high, and the structure when completed will cost twenty thousand dollars. Of this amount ten thousand dollars have been paid in, and all except five hundred dollars has been raised among the members of that church, who comprise about fifty families. Five hundred dollars were raised by picnics given for the purpose. This will be one of the most beautiful church structures in this section when completed.——The rains of the past week raised the creek and river somewhat, but not enough to do the lumbermen any good.

FLOWER DAY.

Our Dead Heroes.

DECORATING THE GRAVES.

Interesting Ceremonies.

PARTICULARS OF THE OBSERVANCE.

The now fully established annual custom of decorating the graves of the soldiers who fell while fighting for the nation's life, is one of the most beautiful and appropriate of our national institutions. Nothing can be more appropriate than this yearly recurring testimony to the fact, that though dead, the deeds of those who fell in battle still remain fresh in the minds of their grateful survivors, both military and civilian. "Flower day," as it has been appropriately termed, is surrounded with beautiful ideas and touching sentiments, such as speak well for the hearts of the American people, and prove that even business must give way when the day recurs for the solemn services of decoration.

In this city, yesterday, the occasion was quietly observed. But, though no startling demonstration was made, a programme of great interest was carefully carried out, which really was more in accord with the spirit of the occasion than imposing street parades or military pageantry. In Allegheny the day was appropriately observed, and the South Side also performed the rites prescribed, over the graves of the buried dead in its vicinity. The day opened gloomily, with a heavy rain and a leaden sky, but the weather cleared up sufficiently early not to interfere materially with the celebratory programmes announced.

IN THE CITY.

As has been already stated, the programme in this city was by no means of so imposing a character as on previous similar occasions, but the day was nevertheless, if quietly, at any rate very fittingly observed. According to the order of proceedings, the members of the Posts, and other invited participants in the decorative ceremonies, were to have assembled at eight o'clock, so as to reach the Allegheny cemetery about ten, but owing to the rain it was almost the latter hour before the procession started. The ceremonies were under the direction of Post No. 117 G. A. R., commanded by General J. B. Sweitzer. Before leaving East Liberty, the Post decorated the soldiers' graves at the Lutheran cemetery, Frankstown road, and in the Presbyterian burial ground, Twentieth ward. At the Allegheny cemetery the different organizations which took part in the proceedings, rendezvoused at the beautiful monument erected to the memory of General Hays, from whence they marched to the flat on the north side of the cemetery, known as section 33—a place set aside specially for the burial of soldiers. At the time the celebrants arrived at this spot, some 2,000 persons had gathered, anxious to witness the beautiful rite. Here General Sweitzer formed the organizations in three sides of a square. The ceremonies then commenced, the St. Cecilia band, under Professor Arbogast, playing, and those present singing, the touching decoration ode commencing

Blest are the martyred dead who lie
In holy graves for freedom won,
Whose storied deeds shall never die,
While coming years their circles run.

General Sweitzer, as post commander, advanced and delivered the address appointed in the regular form for such ceremonies. The Rev. Stuckenburgh then offered a prayer, after which Col. J. H. Stewart, Jacob Davis and R. C. Hazlett delivered short addresses. The Rev. S. J. Wilson then spoke at some length. The St. Cecelia Band and a chorus under the direction of Prof. Lawton, who volunteered for the occasion, then played and sung the hymn entitled "America."

After the hymn had been finished detachments were detailed to decorate the graves in St. Mary and Allegheny cemetery. All of these had been marked by the G. A. R. yesterday with miniature flags. Beside those thus remembered, large numbers were appropriately decorated by friends and relatives. During the ceremonies at the formal opening, a beautiful Decoration Song, written by Miss Annie L. Coombs, with music by Prof. Lawton, was sung by the latter, with a chorus. The ceremonies being concluded, the large concourse of spectators left the section and the celebrants retreated from the cemetery.

IN ALLEGHENY.

The decoration ceremonies on the North Side were of an exceedingly interesting character and were attended by many thousands of the residents both in Allegheny and this city. The programme was commenced at 8 o'clock, at the soldiers monument, by a salute of one hundred guns which was very creditably fired by Knap's Battery. About an hour later Sheridan Post No. 88, G. A. R. and the other participating organizations arrived at Ridge street and the line of procession was soon after formed below the monument, which was very handsomely decorated with flags, flowers and festoons. After a short halt the procession reformed in the following order: Marshals of the day; Allegheny police; Masonic Cornet band; Post No. 88, G. A. R.; Knap's Battery, bearing their war-tattered colors; Co. B., Washington Infantry; carriages. The procession marched by the circuitous route of Ridge, Sherman and Stockton avenues, Federal street, North avenue, and thence along the line of the Pleasant Valley Railway to Uniondale Cemetery, where, in passing in by the left avenue, they were received by the girls of the Third ward school, drawn up in two lines between which the procession passed, while the children under direction of R. M. Cargo, sweetly sang "They Sleep in the Valley."

Still guiding to the right the procession passed on until the head of the column reached the stand, which had been erected just to the east of the monument of the Smith family. Here a square was formed, the police forming the inner circle, the band, the school children, Grand Army Society and Knap's Battery forming the second circle; these two surrounded by an immense gathering of citizens. Here the ceremonies were opened by the school children singing the National anthem of "America." Next a dirge was performed by the Masonic band. Then the One-hundredth psalm was sung, led by the Rev. W. P. Moore. This was followed by prayer by Rev. Thos. N. Boyle, chaplain. The school children followed with the "Soldier's Decoration hymn."

THE ORATION.

The following eloquent oration was then made by U. S. Attorney H. B. Swoope:

In this early spring time, when nature, emerging from the death of winter, clothes herself in renewed and glorious beauty, we have come to these solemn shades with sweet strains of music and the rich incense of flowers, to pay a grateful tribute of respect to the memories of the heroes who lie buried here—to recall their achievements, their service and their sacrifice, in the great struggle for national life and popular liberty, and to drink in from the sacred atmosphere which rests upon these grassy mounds, the deepest inspirations of patriotism and of duty, that in the future crises of national existence, we may circulate the lofty example of the patriots by whose graves we are now surrounded.

From the dawn of human history, among all peoples, devotion to country has been justly esteemed one of the highest virtues. The hieroglyphics on the pyramids of Egypt, that still live in her own burying places, tell the story of her heroes, while Greece the land of intellect and of thought, has embalmed the memory of her slain in the glowing words of an oratory, that will outlive the proudest and most enduring of her monuments. But grander than pyramids, and more sublime than oratory is the scene enacting this day all over these Northern States, where the consecrated graves assigned as the resting place of the departed are filled with the living, perennial offerings to the memories of our fallen braves, strewing their tombs with the flowers of spring,

"As if the sunset evening clouds
Had fallen to earth in sudden rain,

And as we stand to-day among their decorated graves, each designated by the flag in defence of which the hero fell, how wonderful is the resurrection in which we participate? True, these narrow houses do not burst asunder and their tenants start with life to tell us of their struggles, their sufferings, and their triumphs, but from the dead past how multitudinous the events that spring up before the mental eye, crowding upon each other in quick succession, beginning with the dark night of terror that brooded over the land in 1861, and ending with the rushing tide of joy that started beneath the apple tree at Appamattox, and swept from where the broad Atlantic leaves our eastern shore, to where the peaceful billows of the great Pacific dash, and break and die away! We hear, as it were, the echo of the first gun that fired upon the starry flag floating over Sumpter, and hearken, as they roll through the departed years, to the reverberations of the mighty drum-beat, at which the posts of freedom gathered to hurl back the assault of treason. We hear again the "tramp, tramp, tramp," as they come from city, town, and hamlet, from hills and from plains, from the workshop and the farm, from the pulpit and from the forum, from quiet, peaceful, and happy homes all over the land to demonstrate to the world and to all the ages, that the sons of patriot lives were worthy their glorious inheritance. The din of the mighty conflict, the crashing of more than three hundred battles, the slaughter upon the field, the sufferings in the hospitals, the desolation of countless homes, the maimed and the crippled ones,—how they crowd upon us to-day, to remind us of the extremity of the nation's peril, and the mighty cost of its salvation.

In this single cemetery may be found some representative of nearly every action fought during that fearful war. The remains of more than three hundred, tenderly gathered from battle fields and hospitals all over the land, have been brought to this beautiful place, where the turf is often bedewed with the tear drop of sympathy, and the wild grass waves over them ever green and free. It would be impossible upon such an occasion to go over the long list of names, and account their individual achievements, while to speak of a few might seem invidious, where all are alike worthy and equally illustrious. Nor is it necessary. Here they lie, martyrs to the cause of liberty, their names and their renown safe forever beyond any contingency of time or destiny.

There is one, however, of whom it is fitting to speak—an American Florence Nightingale—a noble and faithful representative of the heroic and devoted women, who when the storm burst, quailed not at the danger, but hovered like ministering angels about the military hospitals,—healing, comforting, consoling—watching by the bedside of the sick, the wounded and the dying. Leaving a comfortable and a happy home, this young, gifted, and accomplished lady followed the fortunes of our brave boys in the field, devoting herself to the alleviation of their sufferings with a persistent heroism that ended in her own death. While nursing the sick and the wounded, sent to the rear by Sherman on his "march to the sea," she contracted the disease that hurried her to an untimely grave, adding another to the deathless gallery of liberty's martyrs. How many maimed and crippled veterans will remember with great pride, and teach their children to love and venerate the name of MARY HUMBERT. Ah!

"—earth hath angels, though their forms are moulded,
But of such clay as fashions all below.
Though harps are waiting and bright pinions folded,
We know them by the love-light on their brow.
I have seen angels by the sick one's pillow,
Their's was the soft tone and the soundless tread,
While smitten hearts were drooping like the willow,
They stood "between the living and the dead."
And if my sight by earthly dimness hindered,
Beheld no hovering cherrubim in air,
I doubted not, for spirits know their kindred,
They smile upon the mingling watchers there."

It was indeed fitting that she should be buried here, surrounded by the graves of heroes who, like herself, gave their lives for their country,—here

"—beneath the glad green earth,
The sunshine like a blessing falling round,
And kissing off the tears which night had wept."

Few, indeed, were the firesides in all the north that were not made desolate by those long years of war. The mighty army that rolled back the tide of rebellion embraced in its wide-spread ramifications of relationship the entire population of the country. And there is, to-day, a great and silent multitude of the bereaved who have no graves over which to mourn, but whose homes are made sad by the ever deepening gloom of absence and silence. To all these, and to the surviving comrades of those who have gone down in the fight, how consoling is the sympathy that unites the nation about the sepulchres of its heroes? There is a deep gratification in the thought that the priceless value of the sacrifices represented by these flower strewn graves is recognized and appreciated—that the lives have not been spent in vain, but that they will have vicarious power, and that the four years of national travail will be liberty's eternal gain.

These ceremonies around the tombs of the illustrious dead are equally wise and beneficial. It is only by accumulating tokens of homage, gratitude and respect about the graves of heroes, that society can teach how profoundly it values and reverences their services, and that their surviving comrades and friends are enabled to realize that the popular heart is not ungrateful, but that the memories of such as make themselves benefactors of their race, will be perpetuated forever by those who reap the profit of their sufferings, their dangers, and their toils. Moreover, such ceremonies foster the virtues of patriotism, of gratitude, and of courage,—promote the growth of feelings of magnanimity and brotherhood, and, above all, keep alive and warm that glowing thankfulness which causes us to guard and cherish the soldier's widow and the soldier's orphan.

But especially are such ceremonies fitting and appropriate in a people who have only fought and conquered that they might elevate, improve and bless. We have not subjugated, or despoiled, or tyrannized over our enemies, but with a generosity and a moderation that the world never before witnessed, have buried their treason out of sight, without other punishment than the consequence of the war they so unjustly inaugurated, and elevating them into an equality with ourselves, continue to share with them the priceless benefits of the institutions of our fathers, not only preserved, but "redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled" by such a contest as no nation ever before waged, and such a victory as no other people ever achieved. What page in history, either ancient or modern, records the exertion of superior force, not to appropriate a triumph, but to diffuse a blessing—not to set the conquerors above their equals, but to raise up a depressed and wretched race to a generous communion in all that their fathers' valor won for them, and the devoted patriotism of such as lie here, preserved for their posterity?

As one of the lessons of this memorial day, let us remember that the duty of transmitting unimpaired this great political establishment, which God and our fathers have given us, and which God and such heroes as lie here have preserved intact, is one of infinite responsibility. The great principles of liberty and equality upon which it rests, must be preserved in all their healthful vigor. As the model upon which the nations in future are to mould themselves, we must present a living illustration of everything that can adorn a State. Above all, we must guarantee to every human being within our borders, a perfect equality before the law. We must cast out everything that is corrupt, and that eateth like a cankerworm into the vitals of the body politic. We must administer justice tempered with mercy. Keep our plighted faith with each individual citizen, and with all the nations of the earth, and thus bravely advancing in the career of glory now unfolding before us, accomplish our high and peerless destiny.

Standing then to-day by these shrines of freedom, surrounded on all sides by emblems of beauty and of peace, let us each and all resolve to renew our vows of allegiance to the Union and the Constitution, and let us determine that no enemy at home or from afar shall ever be permitted to undo the glorious work of these heroes, but that our precious institutions, whose light now irradiates the world, shall be as enduring as the sun and stars, whose beams fall tenderly and bright on these patriot graves.

After this masterly and effective speech which was listened to with the most marked attention, the school children sang an original ode, which had been composed for the occasion by Mr. W. D. Moore. The doxology followed and the proceedings at the stand closed with a solemn benediction by the Chaplain of the Post. The solemn and beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves was then proceeded with, and the exercises of the day in this manner were brought to close.

ON THE SOUTH SIDE.

The residents of the South Side had made more than usually complete arrangements for the celebration of the day. The principal streets were profusely decorated with flags, evergreens and flowers, and the people were early astir to do honor to the occasion. As soon as the rain ceased, the streets became thronged, and the greatest interest was manifested by all. Owing to the heavy shower, the procession did not form till ten o'clock, at which hour the marshals formed it on Carson street, with the right resting on Seventeenth street. The order of the procession was: The Marshal and staff; the Washington cornet band; Grand Army of the Republic: Post 151; Knights of the Mystic Chain, Lodges 18, 21 and 25, and carriages. The march was down Carson street to the Brownsville road, thence to Zimmerman's grave yard. Here are buried thirteen soldiers. As the column entered the resting place of the dead, the band played a solemn dirge, and the column dividing, formed two angles of a square, in the center of which the officers, speakers, reporters and band were gathered. A declaration of the intention of the rites performed was read by W. F. Willott, and a prayer offered by Rev. J. K. Melhorn. The marshal, his staff, the ministers present—Rev. J. K. Melhorn and Rev. L. McGuire—then passed around the graves, strewing upon each wherein a soldier was buried, pure white flowers, while the organizations followed in their order, adding all kinds of flowers and evergreens, the ceremony being accompanied by a dirge, played by the band.

The march was then resumed, and Hertzberger's Cemetery was next visited, where the same rites were performed over the graves of the seven soldiers who were buried there. From this place the procession moved to the Methodist Cemetery, where a hollow square was formed and the ceremonies commenced. Assistant Marshal Willot again read the declaration of the design of the rites; an appropriate ode, composed for the occasion, was sung by the choir; Rev. L. McGuire offered a very touching prayer; Mr. F. M. Gesner read a poem from the pen of Will M. Carleton, entitled "Cover Them Over;" a dirge by the band followed, and Revs. Melhorn and McGuire each delivered an address.

THE GREYS.

THEIR TRIP TO STEUBENVILLE—A GOOD TURN OUT AND ENJOYABLE TIME.

Owing to the drenching rain, and other attendant circumstances, the train, upon which the Duquesne Greys were to proceed to Steubenville did not leave the Union Depot until nearly 10 o'clock instead of 9 o'clock, the appointed hour. About 200 hundred members of the regiment of companies A, B, C, and F, at that time departed, under the command of Colonel Campbell. The trip over was a pleasant one and made in an hour and a-half. The most complete arrangements had been made for their reception by the committee consisting of Mrs. Mary Bynon Reese, Mrs. J. G. Barr, Mrs. James Sterling, Mrs. Wm. Donaldson, Mrs. E. M. Junkin, Miss Sallie Filson, Miss F. Ridgely, Miss Lizzie Filson,, Miss Maggie Filson, Mrs. Jas. Blair, Mrs. Thomas, and the following members of the Webster Post 21 G. A. R: S, H. McBeth, James Blair, R. E. Blair, Thomas Martin, and Thomas A. Atchinson. At Burgettstown the Greys were met by the Reception Committee consisting of Mayor Campbell, Col. Holliday, Judge Martin, Sheriff Montgomery, and D. G. Stewart.

Directly after alighting the regiment was formed in line on Logan street and were welcomed to Steubenville, on behalf of its authorities, by James McCurdy, City Solicitor, who said: "To our guests from Pittsburgh I am requested, on behalf of the authorities of our city, to speak a word of welcome. While we are not wholly unmindful of the Scriptural injunction, "Be careful to entertain strangers," it is not as strangers we would receive our guests to-day. What though we dwell in different States, we have one government common to us all, which has been aptly compared to a goodly family mansion, containing many rooms. In all these rooms we are still at home. The dead, whose graves you come to join us in decorating, are scarcely more ours than yours, since, to save the common family homestead, they yielded up their lives. We greet you as brethren. We are glad to have you with us to-day. We bid you welcome to our city, and in the name of its authorities I tender you its heartiest hospitality."

General Pearson replied in one of his characteristic speeches. The procession was then formed, and proceeded down Logan to Fourth street, down Fourth to Market, up Market to Grey & Garret's Hall, where the military stocked arms.

The rank and file were then escorted to the United States House and the St. Nicholas Hotel, where a very sumptuous repast had been prepared. General Pearson and staff, Colonel Campbell and staff, and the members of the Great Western Band, were made the special guests of Thomas Mears, Esq., and repaired to his splendid mansion, where a very elegant repast was served. Dinner over, the line was again formed on Market street, and the procession marched to the Steubenville Cemetery. Arriving there, prayer was offered by the Rev. H. Warden, Mr. W. C. Moreland then delivered the oration, which was one of his best and happiest efforts. He was listened to with rapt attention. Mrs. Mary Byron Reese read an original ode of her own composition, and after some excellent singing by 300 school children, the ceremony of decorating the graves was gone through with. The troops then returned to Market street again stacked arms and were allowed to enjoy themselves [illegible] partook of an excellent supper. At about half-past seven o'clock they left the Steubenville depot and arrived in this city at about 9 o'clock. They were accompanied here by Mayor Campbell and Mr. Allison, editor of the Steubenville Herald. The members of the Greys are loud in their praises of the hospitality of the Steubenville citizens, and all were delighted with the day's trip. The citizens were equally pleased with the Greys and expressed much admiration at their fine soldierly appearance.

Fair hands entwine a wreath,
A hero sleeps beneath—
Tread softly.
Gently place it at the head
Of his bed emblem of Victory.

V.

Fought the last stormy fight,
Gone the last shade of night,
Day is won!
Comrades! roll the drum,
Wave the proud flag
Joyfully!

Haste! Oh Thou Christ of Peace,
Cause all fierce war to cease—

Gladly we'll welcome Thee,
Hail Thee our King
Blessed Lord!

BONDS at Frankfort 96¼.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 44f.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 114@114¼.

WHEN will our neighbor, the Post, publish those extracts on Mr. Cass they have in pickle for us?

AS INDICATED in the GAZETTE of yesterday, the Democracy have nominated Chas. R. Buckalew as their candidate for Governor. This result was reached on the seventh ballot, General Geo. W. Cass leading up to that point. We do not know at this writing what influences or combinations secured the defeat of the Allegheny county candidate, but the antipathy to his nomination was early developed, foretelling his defeat, almost certainly. For full particulars we refer to our telegraph columns.

A SOLEMN stillness pervaded our cities yesterday. The clang of industry was unheard, and the wheels of commerce were at rest. It was Decoration Day, sadly set apart for honoring the memories and bedecking the last resting places of our brave soldier boys, who fell a sacrifice on the altar of their country. Beautiful thought—grateful people, how well they attended to the sad duty all can bear witness. The cessation of business and labor was almost universal, the people on the streets looked and doubtless felt solemn and thoughtful—thoughtful of the noble deeds of our heroic dead, of the stirring war scenes, of the tramp, tramp, tramp of our brave boys on their way to the bloody fields of battle; and solemn that so many precious young lives were sacrificed. Decoration Day—best, most poignant, most solemn of our holidays, most generally observed, may it remain a holy-day so long as we have a proud Republic to save and love. God keep in sweet remembrance the pure, the bright, the beautiful sentiment for which our brave boys died—a free Republic, wholly dedicated to the cause of liberty.

GREELEY, THE LIBERAL.

Who will doubt or gainsay the fitness of the term liberal as applied to Horace Greeley? He bestowed sympathy and favor on Jeff Davis liberally. He went South and preached universal amnesty while the Ku-Klux were every day butchering or hanging Union men. Was this not liberal? He proposed in 1862 to stop the war and let the rebel States go out of this Union. What could be more liberal? He pledged himself to the Liberal Convention that if Congress would by law abolish the tariff, he would not interfere to prevent it, liberally ignoring all his antecedent devotion to protection. No one could more liberally make pledges to catch the votes of all classes—Free-traders included. Truly such liberality could not fail to beguile the nomination from the Cincinnati Liberal Sanhedrim. The people will best requite his wonderful liberality by restoring him to the editorship of the Tribune, and have determined to Grant him this favor.

STATISTICS OF DEATH.

The mortuary statistics as exhibited by the last census, present a ghastly story, but it is well for the living to know the graveyard returns. The ratio of deaths to the population of the whole country in 1870 was 1.28; in 1860 1.25, and in 1850 1.39. The highest percentage of deaths is in Louisiana, where the ratio is 2; the lowest is in Oregon, where the ratio is 0.69. The Western States, especially the younger ones, have a low ratio. A portion of this healthiness may be due to climate, but much the most to the healthiness and stamina of the settlers. Most of those people who go to new countries are the young and healthy—hence a low death rate.

The mortality according to sex is another interesting item. There were in 1870, 492,263 deaths, 260,673 men and 231,590 women—the percentage of males being 52.9, of females 47.1. Nearly one-half of the deaths—203,213—were of children five years of age and under. This is a slaughter of innocents with a vengeance, and shows how fearfully murderous are our customs, habits and usages. Our civilization has numerous crimes to atone for in its treatment of the tender young—follies of dress, lack of proper care in nursing, and improper diet. These figures are startling, and should provoke thought and discussion, followed by action. There were in the same year 1,327 deaths of persons who had reached ninety-five years and over. The common impression is that the death-rate is the highest in the months of July and August. But the month of greatest mortality is March, when was returned as dead, 26,379; the next month of greatest mortality is May, the balmy season of flowers.

The nationality of the dead was as follows: American, 424,730; Ireland, 27,053; Germany, 18,626; England and Wales, 7,150; Scotland, 1,763; Scandinavian, 2,224; France, 1,631; other North of Europe, 934; Italy, 219; other South of Europe, 931; China and Japan, 436; all others, 4,987; unknown, 1,579. Consumption found 79,896 victims, there being 33,971 males and 35,625 females. By homicide there were 2,057 deaths; 1,901 males and 150 females; by suicide there were 1,405 deaths; 1,120 males and 285 females. There were 31 executions, and the census errs when it states that all were males, as here in Allegheny county Mrs. Martha Grinder was executed in 1866, we believe, and Mrs. Surratt was executed at Washington, D. C., in 1865.

PRODUCTION OF RAW SILK.

In consideration of the rapid advance made during 1860 and 1870 in the domestic manufacture of silk goods we are surprised to find that silk culture has seriously declined, for instance in 1860—11,944 pounds were made, and in 1870—3,937 pounds were made, showing a falling off in ten years of over 8,000 pounds. But from what cause has this immense falling off occurred? We are told by the abandonment of the business in most of the States east of the Mississippi. Thus in 1860 Ohio gave over 7,000 pounds of raw silk, and not any in 1870; in Illinois in 1860 over 1,500 pounds, and none in 1870; and the only States producing silk in 1870 were:

	Pounds.
California	3,587
Tennessee	153
North Carolina	95
Kentucky	45
Georgia	14
Missouri	3
Virginia	7
Mississippi	31
Pennsylvania	1
Louisiana	1

The subject was much more attended to in 1860. Pennsylvania then produced 163 pounds; New York 259; Virginia 225; and so on over a great stretch of country. California now alone seems to be the great source from which we draw supplies of American raw silk. The Chinese and Japanese living there understand its culture to perfection, and have a great taste therefor. No doubt it will go on increasing rapidly there, and this must result in the establishment of silk factories on the Pacific coast, but this is rather a drawback to the silk manufacturers, who are mostly located on the Atlantic seaboard, and we think would prefer to import their silk, which they could get at a less price, than bring it from California by rail. This is really sad, the production of silk is so easy. Now let our eastern people make an effort to re-establish domestic silk culture; it can be done with little trouble, the feeding of the worms and care of them can be performed by women, children, old persons, and there are hundreds of persons in feeble health, who, unable to do hard work, could make such an occupation useful, pleasant and profitable. In the South, before the war, silk manufacture was one of the principal productions, and this resulted from economising labor, as all who were unable to do heavy work were employed in this business.

In great, populous States like this of Pennsylvania thousands of persons could be found who would be glad of employment of this kind, and farmers could make good profit by employing otherwise useless hands. Times, however, are now changed since its first culture in this State; now in Philadelphia there are large capitalists who would willingly purchase all raw silk produced at home, and who are ever ready to offer great inducements to encourage its culture. Even here the experiment might be tried with great success in the waste grounds round our city; and if our philanthropic and benevolent citizens who are always interested in providing light employment for the helpless and dependent would now unite in the creation of such an interest, even Pittsburgh might add to its revival. This need not direct labor from other sources, for it is the unemployed that could find profitable remuneration for their services. This kind of labor could be procured cheaply, and accordingly the crops could be raised and sold to compete with the productions of foreigners advantageously.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

All parties, whether claiming to be national, local, or sectional, should be founded upon a sound bed-rock of underlying principles, in order to succeed with the people. No mere transient ebullition of sentiment based on some excitement of the hour can have any enduring hold on the affections of the people. Hobbies can be ridden by political charlatans, and the passions of a populace can be aroused by eloquent harangues of wild enthusiasts, but such victories must, from their very nature, prove a transient glory, and of an immature origin. Know-nothingism, which threatened at first to sweep the country like the storm wind of a fiery besom having been founded on wild and impassioned impulses, without great, national and undying principles, found an early and deserved grave. Anti-masonry having proved itself much of the same character, its battles were against an unseen, unknown, and imaginary foe, soon drifted away into the mists of the past, and at this time is scarcely remembered by the present generation.

The little band of Free-Soilers, who met years ago to organize their party and swear a life fealty to their opinions, having laid the foundation stones on the eternal principles of truth and justice, fought on through years of bitter strife, with an enemy which had hitherto proved all-powerful, and as unscrupulous as strong, until at last, through the providence of God, conquered and now controls the reins of government. Republicanism has succeeded because the way founded upon a rock, because its principles were sound and appealed to the reason and the heart of good citizens. The world loves justice, and this little band has had its sympathy in the long years of struggle with giant wrong.

The "Liberal" party recently organized will go the way of all its predecessors, because of its lack of those elements of power. It is a conglomeration of ideas and of elements of political strife, which will fly apart for sheer lack of cohesiveness. Its only strength is given it by those members who claim to be actuated by Republican sentiment. They will ere long discover that to be true and faithful to those sentiments, they must reunite with the great body of their believers. Our representative men have remained steadfast to the great principles of our party. Our candidates are prominent and strong because of their consistency.

General Grant in 1860 was unknown to his countrymen; in 1865 at the head of his country's armies he compelled the surrender of his country's enemies on his own terms. He has for three years held the office of Chief Magistrate of the United States, pursuing diligently and energetically, and with only the purest of patriotic motives the strict line of his duty in his civil, as in his military administration. His errors have been wholly of the head and not of the heart, and as few and harmless as those of any of his illustrious predecessors. His military valor and conduct, his wise and successful administration of the Government for three years and the abounding trophies of both, a discomfitted rebellion, a diminished debt and taxation, a plethoric treasury, a prosperous and happy country, peace with all the nations, and yet a few malcontents, for mere personal ends, would persuade a grateful constituency to forget the labors and sacrifices of their country's greatest defender and benefactor, and ally themselves to a piebald organization in order that the said malcontents and their allies may, in the overthrow of the grand old Republican party, gain coveted seats at the head of the Government. The great body of the people cannot sanction such a movement based upon such selfish and unpatriotic motives. The leaders of this faction, if they be true to their faith and past professions, will yet find the error of their ways and depart therefrom. There is no danger to Republicanism. It has wrestled with the giants slavery and rebellion, has conquered them, and will go forward to its destiny—the proud advancement of the Republic.

NEW BOOKS.

A MILLER'S STORY OF THE WAR, OR THE PLEBISCITE, translated from the French of Erchmann, Chatrian. Illustrated. New York: Scribner, Armstrong & Co. The readers of recent French literature will need to introduction to the author of this interesting work. It is a plain told tale of the late disastrous war, by one of the people. It gives a clear and intelligible view of the causes which led to the overthrow of the French Empire, and is altogether just such a book as the general reader wants.

A SMALLER ANCIENT HISTORY OF THE EAST, from the earliest times to the conquest of Alexander the Great, by Philip Smith. Illustrated. New York: Harper & Brother. Pittsburgh: Gildenfenny & Hess. This is an invaluable little work—little only in regard to its size—but its contents are immense. Just such a book is needed to inform the public on subjects of great interest, which are to be had only by pouring over huge volumes. History briefly told is interesting, and much more entertaining to general readers. The student will find here also much that he has forgotten in his perusal of more elaborate works.

THE DESERT OF EXODUS, by E. H. Palmer M. A., Harper & Bros., New York. The author of this work was peculiarly adapted for the preparation of such a volume, being an Arabian scholar, and having accompanied an official survey expedition over the greater part of Palestine and the Peninsula of Sinai. He recorded the impressions received at the time and has given them, without inaugurating any new theores, or speculating on the facts which came under his observation. The volume is accompanied with illustrations, maps and charts, and is written in a very attractive style. From the new information which it gives, will be a welcome addition to the library of the Biblical scholar.

THE JAPANESE IN AMERICA—by Charles Lanman, University Publishing Co., New York. This is one of those ephemeral productions which are made to sell just at a particular time. It gives an extended account of the visit of the Japanese to America, a full list of the distinguished visitors, and the record of their doings here, from "official sources," the author says, which in this instance seems to mean the newspapers. Embraced in the book are a few essays showing the literary ability of some of the Japanese students. A short history of the United States, compiled by one of the Embassy for publication at home, helps to fill up the volume. Those who have not kept track of the Japanese in their wanderings here and feel an interest in the subject, will find this volume pleasant reading.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD, by W. T. Adams, [Oliver Optic.] Lee & Shepard, Boston. It is the story of a youth who fell heir to a fortune of three millions, left him by a miser uncle on condition that he should adopt that uncle's name. "The Way of the World" consisted in efforts to cheat him out of his fortune before he was of the proper age, and to give spice to this intellectual porridge, there are plenty of dark plots circumvented, gushing love scenes, pathetic poverty touches, and a thrilling tableau at the end, where a foiled villain sends a bullet through his head, while the hero marries "his own," and settles down to serene peace. There are some people, perhaps, who have an hour to waste, and to such this book will be acceptable.

THE LIFE THAT NOW IS, by Robert Collyer. Lee & Shepard, Boston. A volume of sermons from this Chicago divine, marked with all his peculiarities. It is accompanied by an excellent steel portrait of the author, and in the preface the author says he preached about the "life that now is" because "I am so sure that if we can but find the right way through this world and walk in it, the door of Heaven are at once open to us as ours open to our children when they come eagerly home from school."

WHO SHALL BE VICTOR? A sequel to "The Cancelled Will," by Miss Eliza A. Dupuy. Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Bros. Pittsburgh: Gildenfenny & Hess. Those who read the book to which this is a sequel will gladly buy and read this work, and many others beside who admire the writings of Miss Depuy. It is a charming story, charmingly told. The heroine is a practical, not in any wise a sentimental character, and as such we admire her. Read it.

ANNUAL RECORD OF SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY FOR 1871. Harper & Bros., New York: Gildenfenney & Hess, Pittsburgh. This is a small library in one volume, containing a vast amount of useful and instructive matter. All the latest developments in science and industrial arts made during the year are intelligently and plainly noted, and the work is valuable for the library or counting room.

GOD-MAN, by L. T. Townsend, D.D., Professor in the School of Theology, Boston University. Boston: Lee & Shepard. Pittsburgh: R. S. Davis & Co. This work treats of comparative and essential theology, of manifestation and the divinity of Christ. It reviews in an appendix many subjects interesting to the biblical student, and travels in a path which is seldom used.

LORD KILGOBBIN, by Charles Lever. A Novel. New York: Harper & Brothers. Pittsburgh: Gildenfenny & Hess. The author of Charles O'Malley will always find admiring readers—hosts of them. It is unnecessary for us to say one word in praise of his writings. The knowledge and appreciation of them are world-wide.

THE DAY STAR; or, THE GOSPEL STORY, for the little ones, by Agnes Giberne. New York: R. Carter & Bros.; Pittsburgh: S. A. Clarke & Co. This little book should be in every Christian family, as it gives in an attractive form a smaller history of the Bible, told in an agreeable way. The children should all read it.

A BRIDGE OF GLASS. A novel, by F. W. Robinson. The type is too fine. A good book is worthy of a better introduction to the public than the Messrs. Harpers give to this. It is one of a series, however, issued in cheap form, paper cover, and will repay rebinding.

Skakspeare's tragedy of JULIUS CAESAR. Edited with notes by W. J. Rolfe, with engravings. New York: Harper & Bros.; Pittsburgh: Gildenfenny & Hess. Another of the Harper series of Shakspeare's works, in convenient form.

PANSIES FOR THOUGHTS, by Adeline D. T. Whitney, author of "Real Folks." Boston: Jas. R. Osgood & Co.; Pittsburgh: Gildenfenny & Hess. Many of these poems have much merit. They are very neatly published, with good type, on tinted paper.

NEBRASKA.

The Crop Prospects—A Mischievous Insect—Winter Wheat Not a Success—Tree Planting—Political Notes, &c.

ROCK BLUFFS, NEB., May 23, 1872.

Spring in this State has been a long time coming. The "oldest inhabitants" say they never saw the spring so late; and frequently at the present time overcoats are in a highly appreciative demand. A large amount of rain has fallen within the last two weeks, and this, together with the cool weather, seems to have a happy effect on the spring wheat, and other small grain. The appearance of the former augurs well for a splendid crop next harvest. Indeed we never saw spring wheat present a more flattering prospect for an abundant yield. For the last two years this crop has in a manner failed—not from climatic causes, however, more from causes accidental. The chintz bug, the great enemy of our farmers, has to a great extent injured the wheat crop for several years. This insect works upon the stock, or roots, and literally saps or sucks away the substance. The straw turns yellow, and if the grain has been partially formed in the head, its growth is stopped; and whole fields thus present the appearance of "blighted desolation." This insect operates upon grain in the same way. It will attack the gigantic corn stock and change its dark, deep hues into the colors of decay. Garden vegetables are not secure against its "sting of death"—unless it be the single one of onions. It does not seem to take to narcotics with a very decided gusto; but it will thrive upon the sugar beet, and grow corpulent upon the Early Yorks. This pest emits a very offensive smell, and can be discerned at a distance.

WINTER WHEAT.

A large area of land was planted in winter wheat last autumn, but from certain causes it does not look well, probably owing to the scarcity of snow during the winter. It will not average one-fourth of a crop the present season. The experiment of raising winter wheat in this State, has been in many cases a successful one. We know of a number of farmers who have successfully raised it, and the yield was good; but it has not, and doubtless will not, prove a success until our farmers, by repeated experiments, learn the "true art" of raising it. The soil being light the seed grain is ever exposed to the hard freezing in the winter season by being uncovered by the violent winds. We believe that, eventually, Nebraska will produce winter wheat in abundance; but it will not likely be until larger quantities of timber grow upon our praries.

TREE PLANTING.

This is not by any means confined to fruit trees, although numerous orchards are annually planted. It is fast becoming a part of the profession of a farmer to plant large quantities of forest trees every spring. Thousands, yes, we might say millions, of forest trees have been planted this spring. Many of these trees are native, such as the cottonwood, soft maple, walnut, hickory, &c., but large quantities are transplanted from other States and localities, so that here almost in the heat of what was formerly considered the Great American Desert we shall soon have a variety of forest trees, and forests that will constitute a living monument to the enterprise and energy of Nebraska. The mania for tree planting has been so great among our people that a day, the 10th of April, has been set apart for that purpose, and christened "Arbor Day."

FRUIT PROSPECTS

Of Nebraska never seemed more flattering than they are at the present time. The orchards planted a few years ago, are now ladened with young fruit, and we anticipate a respectable yield of apples, peaches from Nebraska orchards. This fact may seem a little strange to, not a few of our Pennsylvania friends who doubtless entertain the idea that we can not raise fruit in this climate. But peaches, apples, &c., of the best quality have been produced here and we believe that the yield the present season will far exceed that of any previous year.

POLITICAL.

The political ball already rolls. The State Republican Convention has been held, and a delegation chosen to represent Nebraska in the Convention to be held in Philadelphia. The delegation will vote for the renomination of General Grant, but upon the question of the Vice Presidency, they will doubtless support Gen. Thayer, of Nebraska.

The nomination of Mr. Greeley by the Cincinnati Convention, has taken us all by surprise, and the Greeley-Brown element in this State, is considerable, yet not very formidable. Mr. Greeley has long stood in high esteem among the Republicans of the West, but his principles relative to the tariff will not insure him a united vote. We do not believe the Democratic party of the West will support him with the same alacrity that it would some other "Liberal" candidate. Only two Democratic papers in Nebraska have hoisted the names of Greeley and Brown, and the action of the Democratic National Convention may supplant their names with others. B. S. R.

CURIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC.

WHEREVER iron pipes are employed for conveying any heated medium, such as smoke, hot air, steam, or hot water, they should not be allowed to pass through the woodwork unless protected by an earthern crock. Many fires have occurred from this cause.

AT a late meeting of the Province association of the American Institute, Professor Vanderweyde exhibited artificial musk, make by treating blood in a peculiar manner. By adding little hairs, such as are found in genuine musk, the deception is so complete that it cannot be detected even by the microscope.

JAMES NAPIER has examined some of the bituminous mortar adhering to a brick from the Bios Nimroud, Babylon. He found 25 per cent. bituminous matter and 75 per cent. limestone. The lime had never been burned, but was simply broken or ground, containging pieces from the size of a pinhead to that of a split pea.

PROFESSOR TYNDALL, in the first lecture of his present course at the Royal Institution, illustrated his remarks on condensation by relating how snow once fell inside the Winter Palace at St. Petersburgh, because the cold outer air was suddenly admitted into a heated ball-room, the atmosphere of which was charged with aqueous vapor.

DR. OSCAR LIEBREICH, the inventor of hydrate of chloral, has introduced a new organic compound, called croton-chloral, by which the head may be rendered insensible, while the other parts of the body remain unaffected. It, therefore, promises to produce all the good effects of hydrate of chloral, without any drawbacks being attached to its judicious use.

AN exhibition lately opened at South Kensington Museum, London, contains the ornamental art productions, mostly gifts, collected by the Duke of Edinburgh in his voyage round the world, together with spoils of the chase at sea and on shore, illuminated addresses written on vellum and on paper, or engraved on hinged silver, fancy trowels, water color drawings, arms, bronzes, enamels, and textile fabrics in great variety.

ENGLISH mining engineers regard it as extremely desirable to dispense with the use of gunpowder in coal mines, as far as possible, inasmuch as fire-damp explosions are frequently caused by the blasting; and Mr. F. Firth, of Leeds, England, offers a premium of five hundred pounds sterling for the best coal-cutting machine, with compressed air as the motive power, which is adapted for working seams of coal and iron-stone.

WM. W. STORY, the American sculptor, is associated with Prince Odescalchi, Prof. Lignano and others, on the commission for the archæologic exploration of the bed of the Tiber. Their operations will be conducted simultaneously with those for diking the river for the protection of Rome against periodical inundations. All objects found will be placed in a special national museum. The members of the commission are to receive no remuneration of any kind.

AMONG the interesting discoveries of fossils recently made in the Western States, those of the expedition under Prof. O. C. Marsh of Yale College has been the most important. Gigantic flying reptiles once inhabited the district of Western Kansas which this party explored; and the fossil remains of a hitherto unknown species which thay discovered, called the great pterodactyl, show that the creature probably measured nearly-two feet between the tips of his wings, when they were fully expanded.

A SUGGESTION that opium and other sedative drugs which are extensively used in the treatment of insanity may be productive of eventual evil rather than good, comes from Dr. Maudsley, a well-known English physician, who quotes Dr. Coulston on the use of opium in asylums, to the effect that it "soon lost its effect; all the patients lost weight while taking it; their average temperature fell; the pulse was lowered; and in all cases it interfered with the proper nutrition of the body, and pushed it one step further down hill in the direction of death."

POLITICAL NOTES.

SENATOR FERRY passes this severe verdict on the Cincinnati candidate: "To intrust great interests to an administration made up and controlled by Mr. Greeley would be mere midsummer madness." Judge Black says: "No prominent man in the country could be named more unfit for President than Horace Greeley." The New York Nation calls his nomination "a preposterous one," and says that "if he were elected, his administration would be the most corrupt in the history of the country." Wendell Phillips wants to know "what agreement was made between Jeff Davis and Horace Greeley." The Detroit Free Press says "he has sold his principles for the sake of the Presidency." Gen. Mosby calls him "the fanatic whose teachings have been 'the Iliad of all our woes.'" But not a man has pronounced a more harsh condemnation of Mr. Greeley than Greeley himself when he promised that to get the Presidency he was willing to surrender his dearest convictions and allow a tariff reform bill to become a law, when he had the moral, legal, constitutional authority to prevent it. No wonder the nation judging him pronounces him the most unsafe man in it for the chief executive office.

THE World makes out a dismal case for Greeley. Hear it:

"His expected control of the negro vote was another fancied source of his strength. It is already demonstrated that he has estranged the negroes North and South. They regard him very much as our forefathers regarded Arnold."

* * * * * * * *

"The expectation that he can carry Pennsylvania is preposterous.

* * * * * * * *

"In Indiana the Democratic party and its trusted leaders refuse to have anything to do with Greeley."

* * * * * * * *

"In Ohio the repugnance to Greeley is intense. Now these three State are the key of the Presidential position."

THE Nation shows up Greeley's disqualifications for the great office he is aspiring to in forcible language. Here is one point:

"His vanity and love of flattery; his confidence in his own opinions, and his childike brutality in asserting them would disincline him to draw about him those who would consider themselves, and whom he would suspect of considering themselves, his supporters; or if he did, would make it well nigh impossible for them to act harmoniously with him."

ABOUT half of the delegates to the Philadelphia Convention are not committed for anybody for Vice President, but Colfax has one hundred and ten of them instructed to vote for him.

A "HORACE GREELEY Grand March" has been published. A new edition will be produced in November under the title of "Salt River Promenade."

Sickness of Forty Years' Duration Cured.

The cure related below is one of a very remarkable kind, on account of its long duration, and is well worthy of the attention of all those who may be afflicted with chronic disease of any kind, showing clearly that all such cases can be cured. It is that of Jacob Wagner, a respectable farmer, aged 63 years, of New Sewickley township, who has been in gradually failing health for a period of about forty years. The disease manifested itself by a continued cough and a wasting state of health, which, about the beginning of last October, culminated in an attack which showed that the lungs were becoming seriously affected. Mr. Wagner, in this state of his case, applied to Dr. Keyser, of this city, who, by a system of medicine of a restorative kind, has completely cured him and restored him to a state of health to which he has been a stranger for many long and weary years. His cure is thorough and complete, and evinces an amount of skill and perseverance in the treatment of such cases. Dr. Keyser, which is rarely if ever attained in a life time. The cure was chiefly effected by Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, and is another of the many instances of the wonderful restorative power of that medicine, in the cure of every disease of long standing, especially those in which the pulmonary organs and the blood are deteriorated.

Dr. Keyser's office is at 167 Liberty street, in the rear of his Drug Store, from 10 A. M. until 1 P. M., and from 3 until 6 P. M., and on Saturday's at night.

A treatise on Lung Diseases sent wherever it is wanted.

A WHOLESOME STIMULANT THAT IS ABSOLUTETY PURE.

Physicians throughout the world agree as to the necessity for diffusive stimulants in medical practice, but complain, and with good reason, of the impossibility of obtaining them pure. The difficulty here presented would be a serious one indeed, if the class of agents was limited to the adulterated liquors and wines of trade. It vanishes, however, when the absolute purity and extraordinary restorative properties of Hostetter's Bitters are taken into consideration. As a stimulant the article is absolutely free from everything objectionable; but this is only one of its recommendations. If it were nothing more than an excitant, its effects would be fleeting. It might refresh and revive the system for a few minutes, but could produce no permanent benefit. The stimulating elements of the Bitters is a means, not an end. The tonic, anti-bilious, depurative and aperient vegetable juices combined in the preparation are the agents that impart vigor and regularity to the weakened and disordered organization, the spirituous principle being chiefly used in diffusing their influence through the system, and otherwise facilitating their operation. Alcohol, even in its purest form, is not so much a medicine as a motive power, by which the specifics of the vegetable kingdom may be brought to bear upon the debilitated and disordered organs that require renovating and regulating: and it is in this way that the pure essence of rye incorporated in Hostetter's Bitters increases the efficiency of the purely medical ingredients.

DAILY GAZETTE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, May 30, 1872. }

This day being set apart by general consent for rendering tribute to the memory of the nation's dead, therefore financial operations at the money marts were restricted to what was absolutely necessary for the protection of credit and the meeting of paper falling due to-day. The feeling exhibited by the moneyed men is all that the most sanguine of the manufacturers and business men could wish. The capitalists of Pittsburgh are fast becoming educated up to the knowledge that to make their money constantly profitable they must exercise a liberal feeling towards those who have both energy and courage to use it and make it productive. Without exception, Pittsburgh offers more inducements to the capitalist than any other city in the world; there is no other place where he can secure more profit on his money or more safely invest it. To-day this city, financially speaking, contains more solidity according to the number of its people than any other locality on the American continent. Its credit is firmly established, and commands consideration of the highest character wherever brought to notice. All that is wanting to keep the city up to the strides she is now making, is a continuance of liberality on the part of those who have control of the purse strings of this community, so as to draw the best of skilled labor to the city and to educate the minds of those who must in a short time control its business and machinery up to a par with that of any other locality. All business being suspended in New York we have no quotations to-day.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: "The continued export demand for specie is for the present against any decline in gold, whatever may be the fate of the treaty. The present prospect is that some four millions more of the specie will be exported this week. This outflow is a substratum of strength to the market well calculated to maintain the gold premium. Easy as money is now reported to be, so far from stimulating speculative activity, it seems almost to have had a contrary effect, trade in nearly all the productive branches being quiet and dull."

The Boston Post says: "Considerable prime paper has been disposed of to-day, in this market, at 6 per cent. per annum discount, and at 6½ a great deal more would have been taken."

The St. Louis, (Mo.) Democrat remarks that "business at the banks continues quite light. Idle money accumulates, and the rate of discount is easy at 8 per cent. Very little new paper offering, and most of the maturing paper promptly met."

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE. }
THURSDAY, May 30, 1872. }

Business was very generally suspended to-day, and, in consequence, we omit our usual report of the Pittsburgh markets. Some of the commission houses who were in receipt of consignments of green truck, were open for a time early in the day, being obliged, in consequence of the perishable character of this stuff, to get rid of it some way, and this was about all the business that was transacted. However, the markets, in a general way, have been quiet for some days, and devoid of any new features worthy of special notice. Flour and wheat are easier, under the influence of increased receipts, and the latter, as noted in our last report, is lower. Butter is dull and drooping, while for eggs the market is better, and we now quote at 16@17 cents. Groceries unchanged, and the same is true of hay, potatoes and many other articles, not necessary to mention.

The weather continues very favorable for vegetation, and the reports from the country, in regard to the crops, are much more favorable.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, May 30, 1872. }

Trade, as might be expected, was very dull to-day, though this is nothing new. Crude quiet and unchanged; Parker, $3,92½ to $3,95—sales reported at the outside quotation. Refined—Spot nominal at 23¼; June, 22⅞ to 23; July 23½.

Oil barrels nominally unchanged; $1,88 to $1,90 for city, and $1,78 to $1,80 for country. The arrivals during the past week have been larger than for some time past; however, the stock here is not large.

Wool Markets.

NEW YORK.—The Shipping List says:—The market for Foreign continues in a somewhat unsettled condition. The inquiry is light, stocks are not heavy, and manufacturers do not care to buy, as the new clip Domestic will shortly be coming to market. Sales of any large quantities could not be made except at some concession from present asking prices. Sheep skins are in fair inquiry—stocks light. The sales are 15,500 ℔s Cape at 44@46c; 25,000 ℔s Australian 62@65c; and 65,000 ℔s Montevideo, 50@52. There is no change to note in Domestic. The receipts are as yet light, and there is hardly enough on the market upon which to base reliable quotations. California comes forward very slowly, as does Texas and Georgia. The sales are 10,000 ℔s. Fleece at 60@78c; 25,000 ℔s do., 77 for XX and above; 5,000 ℔s washed, 75c; 5,000 ℔s unwashed 50c; 12,000 ℔s tub washed, 80c; 25,000 ℔s super pulled, 73@76c; 12,000 ℔s do. burry, 30c; 2,000 ℔s extra, 65c; 5,000 ℔s combings, 85c; 5,000 ℔s new Texas, 45@50; and 20,000 ℔s pulled, 10,000 ℔s New Texas, and 10,000 ℔ fall clip California, on private terms. By auction, 106 bales damaged Cape sold at 29@36½c; 59 do. Donskoi damaged, 37½c; and 7 do. Montevido, 13¼c, net cash.

BOSTON.—The Boston Shipping List of 25th inst. says:—The market remains without change. Holders are anxious to sell, and manufacturers operate cautiously. The transactions have been larger than for some previous weeks, but were mostly round lots of Australian wool. A large portion of our dealers have scarcely any stock to offer that is desirable, and the new California wool, so far received although of superior quality and in fine condition, is held at prices altogether above the views of manufacturers. The sales include 248,000 ℔s Domestic, and 754,000 ℔s Foreign—in all, 1,002,000 ℔s. The bulk of the stock of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, some 60,000 ℔s, have been bought at 76@80c per ℔ for X, XX and above, and the few scattered lots of fleece on the market will not now exceed 100,000 ℔s of all kinds. There are some 2,000 bales of fall California here, 3,000 in New York, and 1,600 in Philadelphia, amounting to about 3,000,000 ℔s, but considerable of this wool is poor and undesirable, and although offered at low prices, is neglected by buyers. The demand for foreign has been good, and considerable Australian has been taken by manufacturers at prices indicating no change since last week. The sales include 418,000 ℔s Australian, including some small and choice lots as high as 64@67½c, extreme prices ranging from 56¼@67½c, but principally from 60@63c; 6,500 ℔s Cape, 45c; 5,000 ℔s choice Montevideo, 55c; 63,000 ℔s do., 50@52c; 3,000 ℔s Montevideo sorts; 45c; 2,000 ℔s Mestiza, 38c; 48,000 ℔s South American carpets 24@31c; 10,000 ℔s Persian, 36c; 17,000 ℔s Mestiza and Montevideo, pulled, 87@90; 2,000 ℔s Mestiza pulled, 82c; and 80,000 clothing and carpet, on private terms. In sheep skins there have been sales of 100,000 ℔s Montevideo, and 16,000 ℔s Mestiza, at about 35c per ℔.

LONDON, May 13.—The public sales of colonial wool have been brought to a close. About 158,000 bales were brought forward, and the sales passed off flatly at lower prices, in consequence of the indisposition shown by French buyers to operate at the rates of last sales. Prices declined, therefore, 1¾d to 3d, per ℔, the heaviest fall being in Australian wool. During the closing days of the sales there was rather more firmness, and a partial recovery in prices took place. The market for English wool has been dull, and the quotations are unaltered.

Iron Markets.

NEW YORK.—The Shipping List: The market for Scotch Pig is in an unsettled condition—several parcels from recent arrivals have gone into store and bond, holders not caring to sell at present prices; we quote the market however weak, at from $47.50@$53, as to brand, but these prices are nominal; the only sale we hear of is 200 tons Glengarnock, to be delivered in 60 days, at $47,50 per ton. American Pig continues very scarce, and prices are firm at $50@52 for No. 1, $49@50 for No. 2, and $47@48 for Gray Forge, with sales of 100 tons No. 1 Lehigh delivered at Hoboken at $50, prompt cash. Rails are in rather better request, but the market is still rather quiet at $50@51 for old, and $72@73 for new, both gold, with sales of 2,000 tons new English from store at $72 gold, and 2,000@3,000 do. delivered at Galveston during the Summer, and 75 do. old here, on terms not made public. New American Rails are in more demand at about $82,50@85 at the mills. Scrap Iron is quiet, and prices are nominal at $55@57,50, with sales of 50 tons, on private terms. The same firm feeling for Bar heretofore noticed, continues, and appearances indicate rather an advance than a decline, judging from the prevailing sentiment of the Trade.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—(From Circular of Edward Samuel.) Lehigh is without change. Some few brands of Schuylkill Iron have been sold at considerable concessions. Scotch, owing to the large stock now here and due, is dull, and lots have been offered at $2@3 below quotations, without finding buyers. The general impression is that, July and after, the markets will be active in Raw Irons. Manufactured Iron remains unchanged.

The Gardner Fire Extinguisher.

The Ed. Journal of the Franklin Institute, April, 1872, says: "The Gardner Extinguisher seems to us to be well worthy of commendation, inasmuch as it combines all the good qualities of other machines with the special advantages of greater convenience of form, security of the stop-cocks from the action of the materials employed and of the perfect control of the stream of gas, and we can indorse it as the most practical of any yet made public."

The Gardner is rapidly superseding the old-fashioned extinguishers.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was about stationary last evening, with three feet five inches in the channel. Heavy rains in the morning, and the prospects for more water are again encouraging.

The Granite State, from Portsmouth, is the only arrival we have to record from below.

The Juniata, from Cincinnati, is due to-night, and, as will be seen by card, she is announced to take her departure again to-morrow, Saturday. We are in hopes that by that time, there will be more water.

The Brill, Capt. Cox, is announced for Nashville.

The river was falling at Cincinnati yesterday, with nine feet seven inches in channel.

The West Virginia is the regular independent packet for Geneva, and all intermediate ports on the Monongahela river, to-morrow leaving at 3 P. M.

—We extract the following from the memoranda of the Miner: We arrived at Cheyenne Flat at 6 P. M. Supper being over, all passengers were promenading the hurricane deck and viewing the mouth of the Big Cheyenne, when turning round a bend our attention was attracted by a number of sportive red men prancing about on the bluffs and mounted on lively steeds. Near by were three or four tepees. Capt. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Gould and Mr. Andrew Forbes were conversing in the pilot house, when bang! bang! bang! went three Henry rifles, and two shots went crashing through the pilot houses. Capt. S. C. Waddle was at the wheel at the time, and one shot was the nearest call for him that could have been made without hitting him. A ball passed very close to the leg of Engineer Forbes. I must compliment Mrs. Gould as being prudent and heroic, for, though the moment was indeed a critical one, and brave men, to use a term, were rather shaky, she stood with her husband until he considered it safe to descend. Capt. Waddle kept the helm until we glided out of danger. Capt. Kelly felt aggrieved because we had no guns to return the fire. The murderous Miniconjous, after firing, galloped over the bluffs.

—The former employees of the towboat Valid have sought the United States Court in redress of their grievances. Four libels were filed yesterday morning against the owners of the boat, claiming unpaid wages in various sums, which amount in the aggregate to $1,324 48. The first suit was brought by Thomas Stewart and Samuel Moss, deck hands; the second is that of Wm. Cox, pilot, and B. F. Sheets, carpenter; in the third, Robert and Samuel Sawyer, deck hands, appear as plaintiffs. The fourth suit is that of Martin Sands and Alexander T. Shahah, first and second mates; O. L. Davis and F. P. Kerr, clerks; Geo. M. Spellman, steward, and Geo. Kelly, deck hand. The fifth libel was also filed by James M. Witchell and Co., and Riddle, Coleman & Co., for coal furnished the boat, amounting to $752.—Cincinnati Gazette.

—The St. Louis Democrat says: Tonnage at the Carondelet ore pile continues in excess of demand. The J. W. Garrett was ready to leave yesterday; the Warner and Liberty were loading; the Coal Hill lay close to the heap. John Hare's Count is down there waiting her turn to get barges loaded, and may get away on Saturday. Capt. Hare wants all his barges will carry. In the meantime he employs himself in performing acrobatic feats upon the wharf and elsewhere.

—Two cut-offs have been made in the Arkansas by the recent rise. The most important is at Hensley's, five miles below Little Rock. That one the Allen came through on Saturday, and found plenty water. The other is at Rouse's, forty-five miles below Little Rock, and is fifty yards wide, where, a week ago, was a cotton field. The current in the latter is rapid, and the main river will pour through it should another rise come soon.

—Mr. Holman, of Indiana, has an amendment ready to propose to the river and harbor bill, as probably the best legislation that can be obtained this season toward a free canal at the falls of the Ohio. His plan is to provide in the bill that hereafter the tolls on the Louisville and Portland canal shall be four and a half cents per ton instead of the present rate.

—The Miner left Sioux City on the 24th for Buford with troops of the 6th regiment. The Peninah left Saturday for Yankton agency with freight and passengers for Vermillion, Yankton, Springfield and other landings.

—The mammoth wharf boat being built by James Howard & Co. for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad will be launched this week. It will be located on Tennessee River.

—Barge 14, sunk by the Crescent City above Grand Tower on the 24th, contained 1,104 bars railroad iron and 113 tons pig iron. The barge lies in 29 feet of water.

—The Charles B. Church is coming up the Mississippi with 500 tons railroad iron for Paducah.

—The Robert Mitchell has 500 hhds. tobacco engaged at Louisville.

Shooting Affray.

The Phillips Zouaves yesterday held a pic-nic at Washington Park, on Troy Hill, Allegheny, and were enjoying themselves, when two men named Barney Hildebrand and August Durgney interrupted them by creating a disturbance. One of the zouaves named James Clark requested the men to leave the grounds. This they refused to do, when Clark made a thrust at them with his bayonet, inflicting a slight wound on the wrist of Durgney. This seemed to have no effect in driving the men away, and Clark discharged his musket at them. The ball entered the left thigh of Hildebrand, and inflicted a very severe wound. The wounded man was taken to his residence on Madison avenue. Durgney proceeded to Mayor Callow's office and made an information against Clark, charging him with aggravated assault and battery. Clark was arrested and is now in the lock-up, awaiting a hearing.

A Prince Among the Tailors.

A brief visit to the merchant tailoring establishment of Mr. Henry G. Hale, at the corner of Penn and Sixth streets, will convince any one that, numerous and elegant as such houses are in these cities, Hale is a prince among them—a large house on a conspicuous corner, an immense stock, embracing every style, and best qualities of French, Saxon, English and American cloths, kersimeres and tweeds, and all the stuffs for summer wear. The popular and veteran French cutter, Bompain, still master of the tape and shears, with semi-monthly importations of new goods and new styles to replenish and keep full his stock against the large and fashionable custom, by which it would else be quickly cut down and gone, all conspire to justify the pre-eminense of this fine establishment. And then, Mr. Hale himself, we will not say he is the fairest and most upright and accommodating man in the business, because there are many other fine fellows in the business—we only claim that he has no superior. The way to prove these sayings is to try him.

Pennsylvania Reform School.

Messrs. James M. Cooper, John Phillips, C. Yeager, E. Parke, Josiah King, T. J. Bigham, Henry Irwin, and J. B. D. Meeds, Managers of our Reform School, (late House of Refuge,) and Rev. R. N. Avery, Superintendent, are a Committee appointed for the purpose, and with the exception of Mr. King, are now on a visit to Lancaster, Ohio, for the purpose of examining the State House of Refuge, located there in which, it is claimed that methods of training and discipline are practiced, quite in advance of any kindred institution in Pennsylvania. It is in contemplation to abandon our present grounds and buildings and remove to a farm, to be purchased some ten or twenty miles from the city, and to introduce sundry improved methods of conducting the Refuge; the new project will require for its accomplishment from two hundred to four hundred acres of land and will secure the advantage of a better physical culture and sanitary condition of the inmates, without prejudice to their moral and intellectual training.

Sewickley Water Project.

The residents of Sewickley are still prosecuting their project of establishing water works to supply the community with water. On Wednesday morning the majority of the gentlemen composing the committee went on a visit to Youngstown, Ohio, to witness the formal test of the Holly Water Works, put in operation a few weeks since. The following gentlemen composed the visiting delegation: Theo. H. Nevin, Wm. Harbaugh, R. D. Miller, Judge G. E. Warner, Hon. D. N. White, John Thomas, Wm. P. Murray, Col. Frank Osburn, and Prof. M. B. Goff.

Yesterday, in the further prosecution of their duties, the Committee made a survey of the hills around Sewickley, to discover what sites might exist eligible for a reservoir, in case the system in operation in this city should be selected. When the investigations are concluded, the Committee will prepare a report, setting forth the advantages and disadvantages of the respective systems, and designating which, in their opinion, is preferable.

But One.

It may well be said of P. T. Barnum, as we have heard showmen say of a rare animal "the only one on the continent," "the most remarkable of his species," "perfectly docile except when irritated," &c., &c. Surely there is but one Barnum, but one show like his and that is here on Exhibition, the only one on the continent. So vast, varied and wonderful, the only one in the world or elsewhere that comprises so many rare elements to excite and gratify curiosity, so much to instruct or amuse, no other living man could combine, arrange and move such a wilderness of wagons and wonders gathered at all costs, from all the longitudes and latitudes of this mundane sphere, or contrive and manipulate such automata and mechanisms. The mere shells which contain his animate and inanimate museum, filled one of our longest avenues yesterday, and as they passed in review before us were like a revolving kaleidoscope of exquisite art. In one thing only does Barnum fail, and that is in the size of his pavilions, vast as they are, they fell short yesterday. Thousands who sought admission were turned back for want of room, in this particular he must try again.

ALLEGHENY REPUBLICANS.

Preparing for Philadelphia—Another Meeting Last Night—Prospects for a Large Delegation.

Last evening another meeting of the members of the Allegheny Republican Club, was held at their hall on Federal street and the Diamond, to make further preparations for the visit of the club's delegation to the Philadelphia Convention. There was a large attendance and a proportionate amount of enthusiasm.

The meeting was called to order about eight o'clock by Vice President H. M. Long, who presided in the absence of President McNeill. Mr. Theodore Myler was found in his place at the Secretary's table.

The chair explained the object of the gathering, and stated that it was desirable to have the list of those who were going to Philadelphia, completed at once, as the delegation would have to start on Monday. Already thirty-four had signed the roll, and as many more had signified their intention of attending. The prospects were that the club would be represented by a good delegation.

A report was received from the committee on transportation to the affect that tickets for the round trip could be procured for $10 each, but it was possible a reduction could be secured if a large number were on the list. It was stated that the arrangements consisted only in the purchase of tickets, and that each member of the delegation was thus privileged to select his own stopping place at Philadelphia, or all could go in a body. The tickets also would hold good until the 15th of June, so that the visitors could come home when they pleased.

An informal discussion then ensued upon the details of the trip, and the propriety of securing a band, banner, badges, &c.

Mr. Myler thought it was almost too late to make any extended arrangements for banners, &c.

The Chair said all that business could be finished in twenty-four hours.

Mr. Ogden thought every delegate should have a badge; they could be produced at very short notice.

Mr. McNeill [who had just arrived] asked for a report from the Committee of arrangements, to which these matters had been referred.

It was then developed that through some mistake no meeting of the Committee had been held.

Mr. Hobson explained that he found it would be impossible for him to go and so had left the matter with the other members of the Committee. He desired to withdraw from the Committee and suggested the appointment of "live men," (laughter) who intended to go.

Mr. McNeill moved that the Chair appoint five additional members to the Committee. Carried.

The Chair appointed Messrs. Hugh McNeill, Peter Walter, Jr., John Ogden, J. R. Oxley and James Brown, and the Committee was requested to meet at half past one o'clock to-day to perfect arrangements.

The Chair stated that the Committee of Transportation would be ready to make a final report to-night

It was then decided to meet again this evening to finally close up all arrangements, at which time it is expected the full list of those who intend going, will be presented.

Mr. Myler stated that Mr. Painter, who had been appointed chairman of the Finance Committee, had found it impossible to give the matter due attention, and desired to withdraw from that position.

Mr. Hobson moved to substitute James McBrier, Esq. to fill the vacancy. Carried.

The Secretary stated there were several bills due for the furnishment of the hall, and that there was money in the treasury to pay them, but he had no authority.

On motion, warrants were ordered for the bills, as approved by the President, Secretary and Treasurer of the Club.

The meeting then adjourned until this evening, when the arrangements for visiting Philadelphia, it is expected, will be completed.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

Daniel Donoghue yesterday made information before Deputy Mayor Nichols against Thomas Forgarty, charging him with agravated assault and battery. It seems that the parties are neighbors, and the trouble was caused by the erecting of a line fence. The plaintiff claims that the line fence gave the defendant two feet more ground than by rights belonged to him. Accordingly he procured an engineer and had the ground measured, and was putting up the fence when the plaintiff attacked him, knocking him down and stamping on his face. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Ann Ryser yesterday made an information before Alderman O'Donnell, charging her undutiful son Simon, with surety of the peace, in threatening to break every bone in the body of his maternal parent. Simon was released on bail.

John Denning before Alderman O'Donnell charges Henry Clums with assault and battery in knocking the plaintiff down and otherwise treating him in a disagreeable manner. Warrant issued.

Deputy Mayor Nichols disposed yesterday of three common cases who had been "decorating." Two of them had enough left to pay their fine of one dollar, but the other was not quite so fortunate.

Wm. Graham visited the Mechanics picnic at Friendship Grove, and created considerable disturbance by flourishing a pistol on the ground rather promiscuously. After being requested to leave the grounds, Officer Mushington attempted to arrest him. Graham fought the officer desperately, but was finally arrested and locked up in the Seventeenth ward Station House. He was yesterday morning fined twenty-five dollars and costs by Deputy Mayor Nichols.

Miss Mengin charged Annie Caughey with surety of the peace in threatening to burn her out, and also to do her bodily injury. Alderman Crist, of Manchester, issued a warrant, and the defendant gave bail for Court.

There were twelve cases in the Allegheny lock-up last evening.

Chief Irwin and Detective John Messner indulged in pistol practice yesterday, the target being a ferocious dog. The dog at last accounts lived.

Twenty-five common cases before the Mayor yesterday morning.

The Mayor yesterday fined a man named Stephen Rice ten dollars and costs for interfering with Officer Wersenburn.

THE COLORED VOTERS.

General Grant All the Time—The Ohio Colored Men Speaking Out.

A large meeting of colored citizens was held at Greenwood Hall, Cincinnati, Tuesday night, for the purpose of discussing the questions involved in the coming political contest.

After the organization, the chairman read the following

RESOLUTIONS.

The colored voters of Hamilton county, in mass meeting assembled, declare:

First—That we have unabated confidence in the integrity of Ulysses S. Grant, our soldier President, and earnestly desire his renomination by the Republican party for the high position he now so worthily fills. His re-election to the Presidency is demanded by the highest and best interests of the country, and of all the people without regard to race or color. To his matchless skill and undaunted courage as a soldier and to his faithful adherence to the grand results of the late civil war are the colored race peculiarly indebted for the privileges which they now enjoy under the Constitution, but which were denied them so long as slavery controlled the affairs of the nation.

Second—That while the colored race are under great obligations to Honest Horace Greeley for his efforts in the past for their elevation, we can not approve of his course looking to the destruction of the Republican organization and the restoration to power of the Democratic leaders who have persistently opposed all efforts to secure and protect us in the right of citizenship. In the language of an Ohio Democratic leader, 'if elected he (Greeley) will recognize the powers that were at work. He will not dispute that the Democratic party, holding the balance of power, exercised that power in his interest. He can not repudiate the debt he owes.,' We do not acknowledge that our race is under any obligations to him because he bailed Jeff Davis, and we will stand by that party which has consistently sought to protect our race in the enjoyment of its just rights."

The resolutions were received with applause throughout and were adopted unanimously. Spirited addresses were made by a number of colored speakers, and the greatest enthusiasm and unanimity prevailed.

Amusements.

PITTSBURGH OPERA HOUSE.—To-night Messrs. Louis and Charles Garber will take a benefit at this place of amusement. A very excellent bill has been prepared for the occasion. "Damon and Pythias" will be produced with Mr. Gotthold in the first named character. Mr. Ellsler will appear as Dutchy in a "Glance at New York," and Charley Gardner will introduce his specialties. The Messrs. Garber during their connection with the Opera House have made a host of friends by their uniform kindness and gentlemanly conduct. There are few men more deserving of the theater going public. To-morrow the police officers and ticket takers will take a benefit.

FIFTH AVENUE OPERA HOUSE. — That prince of good fellows and ever popular performer, Tony Pastor, will appear to-night at the old Opera House. Tony is accompanied by the finest variety combination which has ever appeared in this city, every one of the members of which is a "star" in his or her particular line. The lovers of fun and jollity have a treat in store for them during Pastor's stay among us, which will terminate on Monday night.

THE GREAT SHOW.—The attendance at Barnum's mammoth establishments yesterday was something tremendous. Ten thousand two hundred tickets were sold in the afternoon, and eleven thousand in the evening, and hundreds were turned away. So delighted were the spectators with the entertainments offered that Mr. Barnum was on both occasions called out, and in response, made brief, characteristic speeches. It is not necessary to say anything in the way of advice to our readers about visiting this wonderful aggregation.

At Wm. Fleming & Co.'s,

No. 139 Wood street, all goods are marked down to the lowest possible figure at which they can be sold, and consequently no deviation is ever made in any case or under any circumstances. This is emphatically a one price house, and therefore the more deserving of patronage, as all buyers share alike and all obtain a just equivalent for their money. The rule applies equally to the wholesale and retail departments, and its enforcement is the greatest inducement that could be offered the trade or the individual. It is unnecessary to speak of the extent, varied character and superiority of the stock of hats, caps and straw goods at this house, as our readers are already aware that the assortment cannot be surpassed in this city. All are invited to call and examine the goods.

BREVITIES.

BARNUM is staying at the Monongahela House.

OARSMEN enjoy these pleasant evenings on the Allegheny.

THE Duquesne Greys returned from Steubenville last night in less than an hour and a half.

AN elegant residence on Fourth avenue is advertised for sale at a great bargain in another column.

MR. MCCLURG was thrown from his buggy on Penn street yesterday, but fortunately was not injured.

IT is said Brignoli was invited to take part in the Boston jubilee. but declined to do anything in-de-chorus.

A MEMBER of the Washington Infantry fainted from exhaustion yesterday about noon, at the Union Dale Cemetery.

THE Avery Guards yesterday proceeded to Lincoln Cemetery and decorated the grave of Capt. G. W. Massey, their late commander.

EMIL PETERS fell on Ohio street yesterday afternoon, and broke his right leg. He was removed to Passavant's Hospital and Dr. B. B. Smith attended him.

JAMES CHRINTON and another young man whose name we could not learn were arrested in Allegheny yesterday, charged with picking pockets at Barnum's show.

A MAN once went to an eccentric lawyer to be qualified for some petty office. The lawyer said to him: "Hold up your hand. I'll swear you, but all creation couldn't qualify you."

GEORGE PHILLIPS, the boy who was injured on Tuesday by being thrown from a buggy on Liberty street, was no better yesterday, and the physician considers his recovery very doubtful.

THE Buchanan postoffice, on the South Side, has been temporarily removed to the rear of the building, while the front portion is being torn out and new flooring laid down, and a new front placed in the structure.

A LADY, in getting out of a Pleasant Valley street car yesterday afternoon, on Federal street, was thrown to the ground by the car starting suddenly. She was considerably bruised by the fall, but not seriously injured.

A MAN named Ramsey while intoxicated, attempted to set fire to a house on Park Way, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon. The fire was fortunately discovered before it had made much progress and was easily extinguished.

YESTERDAY was celebrated as the festival of Corpus Christi in the various Catholic churches. The origin of this festival is due to Pope Urban IV., by whom it was instituted in 1622 in honor of the consecrated host, with a view to its adoration.

"SPOTTED TAIL" indignantly denies that he authorized the association of his name with that of Victoria C. Woodhull on the Presidential ticket. The following dispatch has been received from him: "Woodhull! Squaw! Ugh! Me no run!"

A MAN was found lying in Virgin alley last night about twelve o'clock, in an insensible condition. He was carried into the lock-up and his head and face were found considerably bruised and covered with blood. A physician was sent for, who attended his wounds. He gave his name as Mike Murphy.

WE wish again to call attention to the condition of Eleventh street, between Penn and Liberty. The street seems nothing but mud holes, and wagons heavily laden in passing along the street very often get a wheel fast in one of these deep holes and stall, thus causing a jam for two or three squares.

SEVERAL NEGROES were walking in East Park, above Ohio street, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, when a white man, named William Blakeney, interfered with them in some way, which so exasperated one of the negroes that he drew a knife and stabbed Blakeney in the abdomen, inflicting a serious though not dangerous wound. The wounded man was removed to his residence. No arrests have yet been made.

EXPOSING A FALSEHOOD.

Another of the "Tribune's" Endorsements.

Recently the Tribune published among its "notices of the Reform Canvass" a glowing description of a "Greeley meeting at Kittanning, Pa." The people of that neighborhood were considerably surprised to hear of the great gathering, as none of them had ever heard of it before. The account was signed by Mr. P. H. Rosenberger, who first saw it in the Kittanning Free Press. Mr. Rosenberger at once denied the whole publication, and in a card published in the Free Press of this week says he never knew of it until he saw it in the Press. And further that instead of favoring the Greeley movement, he is opposed to all "soreheadism," and is for Grant all through.

Will the Tribune try again.

Photograyhy as an Art.

Art, in spite of the cold water thrown upon the earnest exertions of those who have its advancement close at heart and who have diligently labored to educate the masses of our people fully up to a proper appreciation of it, still makes rapid headway, and the most of our local artists enforce recognition. In one line especially has great progress been made—that of photography. Only a few years ago, and it was a matter of impossibility to obtain a fine counterfeit of oneself in our somewhat dark and clouded atmosphere, or, indeed, in any other city. But science contributed new phases to the art and studied chemical developments made it approach more closely to perfection, our artists generally kept up in the march of improvement, and to-day in Pittsburgh photographs are printed which in point of rare beauty, exquisite finish and remarkable faithfulness rival those taken even in celebrated foreign cities, where the art has attained the greatest perfection. Among those who have combined their own genius as artists of the brush and easel with the camera, none are more conspicuous than Mr. Trevor McClurg, whose gallery and studio are at No. 2 Sixth street, (late St. Clair,) adjoining the suspension bridge. His pictures—portraits, more properly speaking—are simply superb, and to this fact hundreds of our people, who have been so fortunate as to favor him with a visit, will bear witness. He executes in all styles and in all sizes, from the carte de visite to the cabinet, and up to full life proportions; and especial care is taken that every specimen he sends forth bears the impress of genius and superiority. The Rembrandt photographs which Mr. McClurg takes are very beautiful. In this specialty he is equal in proficiency to any artist in the country. Knowing from practical experience of Mr. McClurg's talent as an artist in the photographic line, we can sincerely recommend him to the patronage of those who desire having their portraits taken in a faithful and superb manner. He pays especial attention to infants and children, and guarantees always a truthful likeness that will live forever in its primal beauty and strength of outline, while the prices are always both just and reasonable.

Universalist Convention.

The forty-first session of the Universalist Association of the State of Pennsylvania closed last evening at Rev. Van De Mark's church, corner of Grant street and Third avenue. At 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning a very interesting conference and prayer meeting was held, and at 9:30 the regular session of the convention was resumed. After closing up their regular business the convention decided to hold their next meeting at Titusville, in June, 1873. The convention was well attended and its meetings were of a very interesting nature. Last evening Rev. J. M. Bailey preached a very eloquent sermon to a large congregation. After the services Rev. Van De Mark announced that on next sabbath he would preach his memorial sermon. All are cordially invited to be present.

BROWNSVILLE ITEMS.

[Correspondence of Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MAY 29, 1872.

In answer to your request for notes from the country relative to the crops allow me to say, I have recently been out several miles into both Washington and Fayette counties, and as nearly as we can judge, winter grains and fruits of al kinds will fall considerably below an average harvest. Among the fruits, apples, cherries, and small fruits promise best.

Corn and oats are looking well enough for so late a season. Grass is short. Gardens are slow, but will yet do good service.

"The Excelsior Planing Mill," situated in West Brownsville, which has been idle for some months has been leased by Aubrey, Martin, and Bevard, and is now in operation. They are practical, experienced men and deserve patronage. We hope they will get it.

Arrangements are being made for Decoration Day observances. The stores are to be closed most of the day. Brownsville, Bridgeport, and West Brownsville will unite. Let our fallen heroes be suitably remembered, and let us not forget their widows and orphans, especially if they are in need of our aid in any way. We owe it to them. C.

How They Voted at Cincinnati.

The correspondent of the Transcript tells in the following paragraph how the votes in the "Reform" Convention at Cincinnati were in some cases cast:

"The representations of several States in this Convention have been purely bogus. George Alfred Townsend, correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, has thrown the whole vote of Delaware on every ballot. He is not a resident of Delaware He is a Bohemian—a citizen of the world. He had a seat at the reporters' table. In the call for States, the clerk looked down to his seat and exclaimed 'Delaware!' Mr. Townsend arose and said, 'Delaware, six votes for' such a candidate, changing the vote in nearly every ballot. Sometimes he was absent, and when Delaware was called one of his associate reporters would exclaim, 'Delaware has stepped out,' or 'Delaware has gone to get a drink.' On the final vote, when several States were changing for Greeley, Ben. Parley Poor, who was sitting near, said to Townsend, 'Greeley is going to be nominated; you had better be on the winning side, and change your vote.' Mr. Townsend arose, addressed the Presidenta, nd said, 'Delaware gives her six votes for Horace Greeley,' and it was so recorded. Mr. Edward Harris of Woonsocket, the co-laborer of Mr. Atkinson in the free trade movement, was the only delegate from Rhode Island, and gave its whole vote."

MARRIED:

EARLY—DAVIS—On Thursday evening, May 30th, 1872, at the residence of the bride's mother, on Congress street, by Rev. Samuel Baird, Mr. WILLIAM E. EARLY, of Allegheny, and Miss ANNIE E. DAVIS, of Pittsburgh.

[As our young friends have thus launched their hymeneal craft upon the matrimonial sea, may its sails ever be filled with propitious breezes, and the rippling waves over which it glides never be ruffled by the storm; and as their voyage, commenced upon a day when nature was made to look glad under the sunshine, and the perfume of fresh flowers filled all the air, may these typical surroundings have a beautiful fulfillment in the happiness and prosperity that shall attend them from their embarkation until they shall "drop anchor" at the end of the voyage of life.] F.

SWIFT—GIFFIN—At the family residence, Mount Oliver, Thursday, May 30th, by the Rev. T. H. Hanna, Rev. EDWARD P. SWIFT, of Allegheny city, and EMMA, daughter of the late Harvey Giffin.
